Sec. Weeks Despatches Air Planes to Coal Fields Preparatory to Possible Intervention

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Preparatory to possible intervention by the federal government in the West Virginia mine disorders, 13 airplanes were ordered today by Secretary Weeks to proceed from Langley Field to the coal fields of that state.

Dispatch of the airplanes, the war secretary said, was purely a precautionary measure, it being deemed advisable to have the planes in readiness to meet any situation that might arise.

Secretary Weeks went to the White House and accompanied President Harding to the army war college, where the president was to deliver an address. The secretary said no reports had yet been received from Brig. Gen. Brundt, sent by the war department to observe the response to President Harding's proclamation calling on the bands of armed men in the trouble areas to return to their homes by noon.

The sheriff and prosecuting attorney of Mingo county in a telegram to President Harding made public today declared that since the strike was called by the United Mine Workers of America in July 1920, no detectives or gunmen have been employed in this county for the purpose of guarding property or intimidating workmen.

"On the contrary," the message said, "during all this time, no guards have been permitted about the coal plants except authorized Mingo county officials, notwithstanding that numerous murders and other crimes have taken place and hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of property has been destroyed by dynamiting and burning."

Spectacular Fire Destroyed Lumber Store and Threatened Oil Works;
Second Fire in Coke Yard

TWO VIEWS OF THE RUINS OF THE REDMAN & RUSSELL LUMBER YARD

The large lumber storehouse owned by the firm of Redman & Russell, which was destroyed by fire last night in a spectacular blaze which resulted in $40,000 damage, will never be rebuilt. It would constitute too grave a hazard, and the state authorities would never permit it." This was the statement given out this morning by John L. Russell, general manager of the Standard Oil plant here, which adjoins the storehouse. One of the huge gasoline tanks standing on the company, said Mr. Russell, but the property belonged to the railroad, and the deal failed of going through for some reason.

Corroboration of Mr. Russell's opinion is seen in the statement issued by Chief Edward F. Saunders of the local fire department, to the effect that he had a conversation with the state officials this morning by telephone with reference to the blaze. Representatives of the state police, said the chief, will probably visit Lowell tomorrow. He

Berry Pickers Blamed for Fire Near York Beach

YORK BEACH, Me., Sept. 1.—Berry pickers are thought to have been responsible for a fire which swept through piles of cord wood and lumber owned by Harry Norton, George Woodward and Norris Trafton at Cluso's pond yesterday. The loss is estimated at over $10,000.

The lumber had recently been sawed and stacked and was for fall delivery. An alarm was sounded and the York Village fire department responded, the members carrying chemical tanks on their backs through the thick underbrush and saving a valuable forest.

More than two million acres of national forest lands were burned by forest fires in 1913.

FLAY PERSONAL LIBERTY SLOGAN

"Enforcement Critics Pull Down Law," Says Attorney Gen. Daugherty

Has No Choice But to Prosecute, He Tells American Bar Association

CINCINNATI, Sept. 1.—Theories of political philosophy now "advanced by those who either violate law or sympathize with law violators" in industrial conflicts, agitation to upset American forms of government, and against enforcement of prohibition statutes, are the greatest forces at work in the United States to undermine respect for the law, Atty. Gen. Daugherty declared yesterday in an address before the American and Ohio Bar associations.

Arguing equally against sentiment that regards a convicted I.W.W. as a "hero of conscience" and "political prisoner," that holds a bootlegger an exponent of "personal liberty" and sets up the slogan of "human rights against property rights" in employment disputes, Mr. Daugherty asserted fallacy and danger lay in all.

The attorney-general in his address, which was his first since assuming office, suggested a method of informing public opinion by semi-governmental means to obviate industrial conflicts, but advocated complete disregard for the theories advanced in the two other fields.

"Not Moral Turpitude"

"Those who do not believe in our government," the attorney-general added, "and the enforcement of our laws, should go to a country which gives them their peculiar liberty."

"Sawing Dragon's Teeth"

Commercial and social leaders who scoff at the federal prohibition law are aiding the cause of anarchy and promoting mob violence, robbery and homicide, it was declared in a warning issued by the judicial section of the American Bar association.

"The people of the United States have undertaken to suppress the age-long evil of the liquor traffic," the statement, signed by Judge Charles A. Woods of South Carolina, chairman of the section, said. "When for the gratification of their appetites, lawyers, bankers, merchants and manufacturers and social leaders, both men and women, scoff at this law, or any other law, they are aiding the cause of anarchy and promoting mob violence, robbery and homicide."

"They are sowing dragon's teeth and they need not be surprised when they find that no judicial or police authority can save our country or humanity from reaping the harvest."

William Howard Taft, chief justice of the United States supreme court, urged measures to reduce delay in the courts. He recommended appointment of 18 new judges, two for each federal district, to aid in clearing the dockets.

Introduction of a report by Elihu Root aroused considerable controversy over the requirements for admission to the bar.

After a turbulent session, the report was adopted by the legal education section and will be presented to the association tomorrow. It recommends two years' college and three years' law schooling to admit to the bar, in schools, maintaining certain standards.

IN VICKSBURG BATTLE

Over the requirements for admission to the bar.

With the death of State Senator R. A. Hutchinson, chief sponsor of the new state plan in Washington, a proposed meeting of modern Idaho and eastern Washington interests set for early September apparently has been abandoned, and supporters of the movement in northern Idaho have been quoted as expressing a doubt that the present is a propitious time for broaching the proposal.

A commission authorized by the last session of the Idaho state legislature to take steps looking toward formation of the new state has not been appointed, and doubt has been expressed that it ever will be named.

One new element recently injected into the discussion is that of taxation. The tax rate in Washington is much higher than that of Idaho, it is pointed out, and fears have been voiced that this would deter Idaho tax payers from favoring the proposal at this time.

Praise Given Children Who Took Part In Playground Closing Exercises

SCENE FROM EXHIBITION DANCE GIVEN BY SOUTH COMMON GIRLS

Lowell's municipal playground season closed yesterday afternoon with hundreds of friends and relatives of the youngsters, who had spent their summer in supervised play and work, on hand to see the results of eight weeks of activity. Fully 1500 children took part in the program on five playgrounds and surely double that number of spectators enjoyed the various events of the afternoon.

In every instance nothing but words of praise and commendation were forthcoming from the spectators as they saw unrolled before them a panorama of races, baseball games, volley ball games, fancy dancing and sewing and cooking exhibitions. The 1921 season of park department playground work was fully up to the standard of success attained in previous years. Each child knew just what his or her part in the afternoon's program was to be and there was not a single untoward happening recorded on any playground.

Closing Day Exercises

Closing day exercises were held on the North and South commons, the Greenhalge school grounds, the Franklin school grounds and Belvidere park. The exercises on the South common combined the efforts of the children of that playground with those of the Aiken street playground children while the Greenhalge and Chambers street children united on the Greenhalge school grounds.

On the South common the boys and girls' sporting events were held simultaneously. The girls' races resulted as follows: Shoe race for larger girls, Mildred Clancy, South common; and for smaller girls, Winifred Murphy, South common; three-legged race for larger girls, Ida Diodomeno and May Laport of the South common and for smaller girls, Gertrude Downing and Florence F. Barrett of the Chambers street ground; 100 yard dash for believed that State Fire Marshall Neal would be here to look over the situation. The chief intimated that this might be preliminary to action such as was predicted by Mr. Russell.

Firemen Met Roaring Furnace

"The place was a roaring furnace when we got there," said the chief. "If box 412 had been rung, instead of a box some half mile away, we could have reached the scene even more rapidly. As it was, we had to arrive in a roundabout manner, as there was no alarm sent in from the boxes in the vicinity of the yard." The fire bells were still ringing, however, when the chief reached the fire. The wind was blowing directly toward the six towering gasoline and kerosene tanks of the Standard Oil company, and one of these was in flames at the top. The first stream was played on the tank, the water boiled off, but a curtain was soon surrounding the vast containers, three streams being directed from the top of the garage. This prompt action undoubtedly headed off even a more serious conflagration, with possible explosion of the gasoline.

Chief Saunders declared this morning that he could not give an opinion as to the cause of the fire as yet. It is thought that the state authorities expected tomorrow may be able to unearth something. The chief's examination today gave no clue, he said, as all evidence had been destroyed.

High Tribute to Firemen

The capacity of the six tanks at the Standard Oil plant here is approximately 130,000 gallons each. "A splendid job," in saving these was done by the firemen," said Manager Russell of the corporation. "I have had great experience with fires in connection with the petroleum business," he added. "I have been in the well regions where I have witnessed fires and also I have been present at refinery fires. But I never saw a fire handled in better shape with such excellent judgment."

The tank which caught fire last night was ignited by sparks. It was not one of the three tanks which directly adjoin the lumber storehouse. These three are almost non-combustible, according to Mr. Russell, and will stand an extraordinary amount of heat.

"I want to call the public's attention," said the Standard Oil manager, "to the fact that this plant is surrounded with all the safety devices possible. The tanks can't overflow or encroach onto the property of others because they are situated in a well encompassed by a high bank of earth, and of twice the total capacity of the tanks. The tanks next to the blaze would require tremendous heat for an explosion. The tank well would contain the oil if the tanks did give way. We have spent thousands of dollars here to throw protection around our works, in preparation for just such an emergency as arose last night. I can't say, however, too much for the fire department." The tank which caught fire, said the manager,

THE LATE HAMBLIN S. GARDNER

probably was about two-thirds full of oil, or contained probably somewhat more than 50,000 gallons.

Another Fire Started

The fire of last night was located in the very heart of the lumber, oil and iron manufacturing activities of Ayer City, and while it was at its height a coke shed said to have been owned by a John Brady, burst into flames half a mile away. The alarm for the second fire closely followed that of the first, at the lumber storehouse. This gave rise to the impression that a second alarm had been sounded. However, only one alarm was rung in for the first fire to break out.

Death of Fireman

A tragedy cast a pall of gloom over the desperately working fire-fighters, when Hamblin S. Gardner of the Lincoln street fire station, collapsed suddenly and died on the way to St. John's hospital. Death is said to have been due to natural causes, while the extraordinary exertions in which Fireman Gardner was engaged in the stress of the conflagration acted as a partial cause. Abel R. Campbell sought to rush Gardner to the hospital, but reached there too late.

Gardner, together with George C. Robarge, yard foreman, were at work at the office, situated within a few feet of the main structure, when they saw flames coming through the roof of the latter building shortly after 5 p.m. A spark from a passing freight train may have started the conflagration. It is believed by employees of the concern.

The First Alarm Misleading

An alarm from Box 426 in the N. Y. N. H. & H. freight yard, first reached fire headquarters, although a phone call was sent in from the lumber yard itself immediately afterwards. Delay was caused by the firemen tearing up Gorham street as far as the bleachers bridge, in answer to the first call. When Chief Saunders reached the blaze, he telephoned for all available apparatus, and as his next step laid three lines, and directed them on the oil tanks. The garage was also kept soaked, as it was filled with a number of machines and more or less gasoline. Eight more streams were turned on the lumber storehouse, but only served to keep the flames under control, as the fire had progressed too far to save any of this structure.

UNIVERSITY EXTENSION

Director Moyer Tells of Local Work—Certificates Awarded

Mr. James A. Moyer, director of the University Extension courses under the state department of education, sends out a statement of the work done in this city from which the following is taken:

Lowell leads many Massachusetts cities in her record of accomplishment in university extension work both in number of classes and in number of students. A thousand Lowell residents have been entered on the lists of university extension students for the past year and twenty-four state classes have been conducted in this city. Nine of these classes were conducted at the high school. The largest of these were two classes in gasoline automobiles held for the benefit of persons driving cars or preparing to purchase cars. The enrollment was 250 and the teacher was John J. Gillie. English classes were conducted by a Boston instructor,

Percy W. Long, who gave the courses in methods of teaching English in secondary schools, and English composition; and by two local instructors, Miss Helen Christie, who taught commercial correspondence, and James G. Dow, who was in charge of the course of oral English-public speaking. A class in American citizenship was given by the superintendent of schools, Hugh J. Molloy, and appealed to the newly enfranchised Lowell women.

This class under Superintendent Molloy's direction was one of many given by the state in progressive communities last year.

A short six-lecture course on the fundamentals of citizenship will be offered in the fall. Instruction in this subject will be free. The state feels that it is a function of government to put these classes of civics within the reach of all her citizens. Matters of local city and town government and the services rendered by the various departments of government to all the people and consequent obligations of good citizenship thus entailed will be emphasized this year.

A recently developed and practical course in textile processes and calculations was given at the Massachusetts Cotton mills with Mr. Peasey of the mills for instructor. Another class which scored a success at the mills was one in oral English-public speaking conducted by James Dow. This class was so much interested in the subject that it staged a play under Mr. Dow's direction and laid plans for a company publication to be called the "Mascol," after the name of the mills. Another oral English class stressing story-telling was offered at the Community center with Miss Mildred P. Forbes of Boston for instructor. At the Sacred Heart school Chas. D. Foley of this city gave courses in business English, civil service, English, practical applied mathematics and advanced shop mathematics. Miss Helen F. O'Rourke gave a course in foods and nutrition and household management at the school. Two classes were in operation at the Y. M. C. A. this year. A class in safety engineering under Harry W. Donald of Boston; a class in industrial organization under H. D. Manuellian of Lowell. At St. John's hospital a class in elementary chemistry had as members many of the nurses. James F. Conway of Lowell gave the course. The Textile school was the meeting place for courses in elementary accounting principles, Herbert J. Ball and Wilfred B. Maynard, instructors, and business law, Patrick Reynolds, instructor. All these instructors are Lowell men.

NERVOUS FAINTING SPELLS

Mrs. Werner Tells How They Yield to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Camden, N. J.—"Before my baby was born I was run down and weak, had pains in my back and stomach, was very nervous and would have fainting spells. I certainly suffered lawfully with those nervous fainting spells. I did not know anyone at times and used to scream. A doctor treated me for the spells but did not seem to do much good. I had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills before so I began taking them again. I soon felt a change and could do my work without pain and was cured of those nervous fainting spells. Now I have a nice fat baby girl and had an easy time at birth, thanks to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. WILLIAM C. WERNER, 1216 Van Hook St., Camden, N. J.

When a wife finds her energies are flagging, she is weak, nervous, suffers from backache, the "blues" she should build her system up at once by taking that standard woman's medicine, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as did Mrs. Werner.

HIGH COST OF LIVING COMING DOWN

One of the most prominent commodities in the high cost of living that is lower in price, is that of food, which is a blessing to the majority of people, as they will soon be able to afford better meals, but what good is a fine meal if you suffer from Indigestion and Stomach Troubles. You can easily be relieved of these disorders and keep your stomach and digestive organs healthy by taking SEVEN BARKS, nature's remedy of roots and herbs.

The stomach is where digestion begins, but the most important work is done by the bowels, liver and kidneys—failure of these to act efficiently allows the whole body to be poisoned and if neglected will lead to serious trouble. But if you will take from 10 to 20 drops of SEVEN BARKS in a little water after meals, you can eat and enjoy your favorite food without fear of serious results.

President of W.C.T.U. Revisits Spot Where Union Was Founded

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1—How and its equally notorious companion has retreated before the movement for moral betterment during the 45 years of the W.C.T.U.'s existence, was impressively borne in upon Miss Anna Gordon, its international president, when she recently revisited the spot where the world union had its inception here.

In 1883, the woman who now heads the organization stood beside Frances E. Willard in a Chinatown den when she made her historic pledge to unite militant Christian women.

Having in mind that dramatic scene, Miss Gordon sought again to find the exact spot in a sentimental pilgrimage with other W.C.T.U. delegates.

But a new Chinatown, different from the old as night and day, has grown up over the dives of brazen vice to which the Oriental quarter

SILVER STREAKS CHARLIE'S HAIR

BY MARIAN HALE

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—The thrifty woman who bought a wrap coat last season expecting to wear it this year must make up her mind to be a bit passé.

The new coats offer the most important and decided change in the silhouette of all the season's styles. No longer is the cape-like wrap, beloved of the slender woman and adored by the fat one, going to accentuate graceful lines or conceal the lack of them.

The newest models from E. J. Wile & Co. show the flare in all its glory. Snappy and smart are these new coats which are shown in a variety of handsome materials.

An attractive coat is of Sorrento blue cordova, embroidered in gray chenille and with big wolf collar and cuffs.

JOHN W. DAVIS SPEAKS

Tells Lawyers English Go to Courts Less Often Than

Americans

CINCINNATI, Sept. 1.—The average Englishman, with all of his proverbial insistence upon his personal rights, calls less often upon his courts for relief than does his American cousin, declared John W. Davis, former ambassador to England, in an address here last night before the American Bar association in which he gave "some random observations on the organization of the legal profession in England and the administration of English justice."

"Who shall come forward with an explanation of this fact, if fact it be?" asked Mr. Davis. "Is it a survival of days long gone when Justice was not only costly but tardy and uncertain? Is it because there exists in England a class of lawyers whose business lies wholly outside the courts and in whose hands many controversies are settled without judicial aid; or is there a reason deeper still in the age-long habit of this Island people to respect the law they have made and live their daily lives within its well-marked circle?"

"Starting as it may seem, the litigation of England and Wales is relatively little more than the litigation in our federal courts alone; and the vast tide of controversy that flows through our state tribunals may be credited to us as surplus hellosophery."

The speaker, after discussing the ranks and orders into which the legal profession in England is divided, declared that "in comparison with the close knit organizations sheltered by the Inns of Court and Law society, we in America seem so many scattered grains of sand." It is difficult to make one familiar only with the English atmosphere, he continued, "understand that, in truth notwithstanding this association, there is no such body as the American bar. There are, instead, scattered groups consisting of county, city and state bars, with a federal bar here and there composed in part of the same members but united by no tie of common origin or discipline."

A marked spirit of progress, especially in the domain of criminal law and procedure, Mr. Davis said, has been shown in recent years by the legal profession of England. In addition to sweeping changes in the judiciary acts of 1872, 1874 and 1875, he declared, "justice has been brought nearer to the masses by the enlargement of the common law jurisdiction of the county courts."

"When all comparisons have been made, and all differences recounted," Mr. Davis said in conclusion, "the fact remains that the members of the legal profession in England are in very much truth our brethren over seas. The common law by which we live has its roots in English soil. The judges who interpret it on both sides of the water look to their distant colleagues for counsel and assistance, and the principles of liberty which is embodied are the road and staff by which our peoples walk."

"Trained in the same school, professing the same great ideals, sharers of like immunities and privileges, there rests upon the legal profession in England and America a duty which is joint and not severable, common and not divisible. The nations whom they serve stand today supreme in present strength and in potential energy. Upon whom destiny has laid accordingly the largest responsibility for the immediate future of the world. Shall not the lawyers, who lead as well as serve them, guide them in the ways of mutual confidence and joint endeavor in the service of mankind?"

PATK. DONLAN WANTED

His Wife Killed in Auto Accident While Husband Was Absent.

Sept. Redmond Welch of the police department has received a letter from City Marshal Edward J. O'Leary of Salem, who is endeavoring to locate Patrick Donlan, a former resident of Salem, who is believed to reside in this city. It seems that Donlan's wife was killed in an automobile accident in Salem Aug. 22 and all particulars concerning the accident are in the hands of the Salem city marshal. Donlan is described as being 65 years of age, 5 ft., 10 in. in height and weighing 135 pounds. He is a leather worker by trade.

$200,000,000 PROFITS CONCEALED BY R.R.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Western railroads by expansion of reserve accounts and the setting up of exorbitant depreciation charges against their properties have concealed profits amounting to nearly $200,000,000, Cyril T. Reed, chairman of the Kansas Public Utilities commission and spokesman for the western grain men in their attempts to get reduced railroad rates, testified today before the Interstate Commerce commission.

On the basis of an analysis of the accounting of 19 railroads in the west, operating 49,054 miles of track or 6 per cent of the mileage of the western districts Mr. Reed asserted that their profits during 1920 which he said generally had been considered inadequate to meet the government guarantees of their earning power, in fact that had been the greatest in their history.

He charged that propaganda in favor of maintenance of transportation rates had misled not only public opinion but official bodies charged with regulating rates.

The profits of the 19 railroads as shown by their official reports were $937,534,470. In 1920, Mr. Reed said, while in 1915, the best year previously recorded, he added, they amounted to $528,715,755. In addition to this road held on Dec. 31, 1920 he continued $25,000,000 as a reserve for "accrued depreciation of equipment." In 1915, the total reserve so held was $144,991,362, he said, adding that the roads in 1920 had added to the fund $15,000,000 which was carried as "operating expenditure."

A further example, he said, was an "operating reserve account" which amounted to $38,111,445 in 1920, while in 1915, the fund was $3,332,554.

These amounts were set aside from railroad earnings, Mr. Reed said, notwithstanding that the normal expenditures were made upon maintenance of equipment and road bed. Production figures as to the amount of work done, he asserted, that there had been no failure to provide usual maintenance.

Among the roads included in the summary were the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe, the Chicago & Rock Island, the Great Northern, the Minneapolis & St. Louis, the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, and the Chicago & Great Western.

DELEGATES TO BRING RARE BEVERAGES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Adoption of a passive attitude toward the possible arrival in Washington of beverages of rare vintage with the delegates to the disarmament conference in November, was indicated today by Treasury officials. Delegates to the conference, officials asserted, would probably be accorded the same diplomatic privileges extended duly accredited foreign representatives and in such cases there would be no question of their right to import intoxicants.

Many delicate prohibition questions may arise during the conference. It was said, such as the service of wines at functions at places other than on the properties of embassies and legations. But the government, it was added, could be expected to refrain from embarrassing the conference on this question.

There are nearly five million pigs in the newly formed country of Jugoslavia.

DROP IN BIRTHRATE

Lowell, Like Other Cities, Reports Falling off in Births

There has been a material decrease in the number of births in Lowell so far this year as compared with last year, according to figures available at the office of the board of health. Up to the present time there has been a total of 1921 births recorded this year, or an average of 242 per month. Last year the total number of births was 2156, or an average of 263 per month.

Conditions here in Lowell are much the same as in Boston where there has been a decided drop in the birth rate as compared with a year ago. However, Agent Francis J. O'Hare believes that before the end of the present year a high average will be struck. He points out that during the month of August a total of 257 births was reported and there are still more which have not yet been recorded by doctors. He believes that there will be at least 210 births for August reported when all of them have been recorded. This will establish a new record and will help to offset the decrease noted in the preceding months.

The number of births by months this year has been as follows: January, 257; February, 238; March, 266; April, 226; May, 239; June, 247; July, 242; August (incomplete) 237.

BANKING COMMITTEE MEETINGS SCHEDULED

The special committee for the state of Massachusetts on the revision of the banking laws has requested the local chamber of commerce to announce to its members that the commission has voted to hold public meetings in the auditorium of the state house for four days beginning Monday, Sept. 12. Those meetings will be of interest to local bankers and it is expected that many Lowell men will attend them.

The schedule of meetings will be as follows: Monday, Sept. 12, 10 o'clock, trust companies; Tuesday, 10:30 o'clock, co-operative banks; Tuesday, 2 o'clock, credit unions; Wednesday, 10:30 o'clock, savings banks; Thursday, 10:30 o'clock, foreign banks and general banking subjects.

WANTS PROMPT TRIAL
John B. O'Don, federal prohibition officer, who was indicted by the grand jury last June will seek an early hearing of his case by the federal authorities, it is said. He hopes to have his case heard during the week of Sept. 12, it is claimed.

TO TEST NEW WEAPONS OF AERIAL WARFARE*Spanish Positions Vigorously Attacked

PARIS, Sept. 1.—(By the Associated Press)—The Spanish positions at Melilla, Morocco, were vigorously attacked all day Wednesday, according to a telegram received in Madrid from General Berenguer, Spanish high commissioner in Morocco, says the correspondent of the Paris Midi in the Spanish capital. Two transports with troops and materials of war have arrived in Melilla. Le Journal's correspondent at Rabat quotes the Petit Paroquin as saying that the small Spanish posts facing the French post of Quezzer had been evacuated and that the Spanish troops there were withdrawing to Alcazar. Similar evacuations are in progress, the despatch said, in the region of Tetuan, notably blockhouses along the road from Sheshuan to Tetuan.

GERMAN COMPETITION HITS AMERICAN TRADE 11 BURNED IN OIL FIRE AT EVERETT

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 1.—German competition with American trade in Argentina is severely felt, and in some instances American articles have been ousted from the market, says Edward F. Feeley, commercial attaché at the American embassy. This is especially true in the trade in small manufactured articles, but the Germans are less effective in selling heavy machinery, locomotives, rails and other large steel products. They have as yet been unable to make sufficiently quick deliveries, although they frequently quote low prices.

The competition in the trade in small articles shows no signs of weakening and with some products, notably cheap watches the Germans flooded the market some time ago, shipping 150,000 timepieces into Argentina and selling them below the cost of production and shipment of similar watches in the United States. German cutlery and small hardware can be obtained at prices one-third less than those charged for American products. They have also won from Americans the trade in drugs and chemicals.

Stationery paper and small electrical supplies are also selling cheaply at the expense of American business. Germans are quoting low prices on print paper, and have made large deliveries of this product.

Veteran of Civil War Still Hale and Hearty

GEORGE D. SHAW, Springfield, Mass.

"To say that I feel twenty-five years younger, twenty-five years healthier and twenty-five years stronger expresses what Tanlac has done for me better than any other way I can put it," said George D. Shaw, Veteran of the Civil war, who now lives at 321 Walnut st., Springfield, Mass.

"The fire spread in five minutes to the No. 1 agitator tank of the group of four tanks in that section of the oil plant which also includes 60 storage tanks. The fire was checked about 20 minutes after it started. The damage, officials at the oil plant stated, will be less than $500, as the tanks, which were of steel, were not badly damaged.

Two alarms were rung in about 3:30, the first from box 35 and the second from box 34, followed shortly afterwards by a second alarm from box 35 at the direction of Chief Phillip D. Ham, the first alarm having been given.

"At the big black column of smoke pouring up into the sky from the burning gasoline tank tops indicated a dangerous fire.

The smoke was carried by the easterly wind over the city and created the impression that there was a fire in South Everett. Thousands of persons gathered, attracted by the thick heavy black smoke pall which lasted about 20 minutes.

"I am now seventy-eight years old and I am happy to say I have never known a medicine to equal Tanlac.

"For fifteen years I was subject to attacks of indigestion that were so bad at times I would have to lay up for a week or two. For a long time I lived on crackers and milk alone as nothing else agreed with me."

"When I started on Tanlac I weighed only one hundred and seventeen pounds and my days were numbered. I've been so wonderfully built up, I now weigh one hundred and forty-three pounds and my stomach is as sound as a dollar. In fact, I believe I could eat the old army rations again without it hurting me in the least.

"I never miss a chance of saying a good word for Tanlac and I would like to urge the boys of the Sixties who are not feeling right to give it a trial, for I am sure it would put them in line again just as it has me. For a man of my age to have no physical ailment to be well and strong and energetic as he did twenty-five years ago, is something to be thankful for and there is nothing too good I can say for Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold in Lowell by Green's drug store under the personal direction of special Tanlac representative; by Wright Drug Co., Billerica, Mass.; A. D. Falls, Chelmsford, Mass.; Snow's Pharmacy, Concord, Mass., and by the leading druggist in every town. Adv.

KAHN SAYS BOLSHEVISM WHOLLY DISCREDITED

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Returning yesterday on the Olympic, Otto H. Kahn, New York banker, said he had found Europe with the general opinion that the co-operation of Germany was needed in the regeneration of Russia.

"In comparing my European impressions this year with those of last year," said Mr. Kahn, "what struck me as perhaps the most interesting and significant development are:

"First, that the theories of Bolshevism are wholly discredited and have ceased to be a contagious influence and an article of faith with all but a small fraction of the bona fide working people of Europe.

"Secondly, that the eyes of the industrial nations of Europe are on Russia as the new land of unlimited possibilities.

"Thirdly, that there seems to be almost universal recognition, even in strongly antagonistic quarters, that for the commercial penetration and the proper economic ordering and development of a regenerated, or to be regenerated, Russia the active co-operation of Germany is requisite and essential, owing to her continuity and her knowledge of Russian ways and qualities and conditions.

"England and France are alive to that situation, and their financial and industrial leaders are astir, especially those of England, with traditional enterprise, skill and foresight.

"American co-operation would be welcome at this time. It would appear to me that this situation should receive the careful and prompt attention of American industry and finance, lest by standing aloof too long we may find ourselves foreclosed from desirable opportunities when the proper time arrives.

Referring to general business conditions, Mr. Kahn said: "The prerequisites are that waste and slipshod methods in business be eliminated, costs brought down, the get rich quick and easy period considered definitely at an end, and that both capital and labor recognize the need of adjusting their respective compensation to the circumstances which the country has to meet."

NO CAUSE FOR ALARM FOR DISABLED VETERANS OVER WHEAT SUPPLY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—No cause for serious alarm is apparent at present, over the prospect of the world's wheat supply, although the situation is not so satisfactory as was expected during the first part of the current season, according to the department of agriculture. Twenty countries, including the United States, which produce approximately 65 per cent. of the known wheat crop of the world, will harvest 2,151,120,000 bushels this year. That is 762,575,000 bushels more than harvested in those countries last year.

Drought in the greater part of the northern hemisphere was a serious menace in many countries but failed wheat was not so adversely affected as at first supposed. Nearly all northern and central European countries will have larger wheat crops than last year.

A very unsatisfactory feature in the present international situation is the hopeless condition of the Russian crops the department experts say. Unofficial reports state only a very small area was sown in Russia to the various crops, resulting in failure to produce sufficient food for the country's needs.

smaller girls, Teresa Laporte, and for larger girls, Julie Nickerson.

Sports for Boys

The sports for the boys resulted as follows: 100 yard dash, John Corcoran, first; Peter Garcia, second and George Corcoran, third; 220 yards run, John and George Corcoran, first and second respectively; 440 yard run, Frank Fagan, first and William Glode, second; high jump, William Hornby, second; long jump, Ernest Cronkey, second, and John Busby, third.

The South common boys won a relay race from a team representing the Chambers street ground. The members of the winning team were Fagan, Tarplinian, Evan O'Neill, Hornby and Kenefick. Fagan won the pole vault at six feet, eight inches, and Hornby was second. The judges of the boys' events were Jeremiah McCaffrey, Garret G. Royal and Elmer Kempton.

The supervisors for the boys were Patrick Mullane of the South common grounds and Arthur Sullivan of the Chambers street grounds.

Volley Ball

A volley ball game was won by the South common girls and a baseball game in the morning also went to the South common. An exhibition of sewing on one of the slopes demonstrated the skill which the girls had required in handwork during the summer months.

The prettiest feature of the afternoon was the exhibition dance given by groups of girls in pink and green dresses with accompaniment by the Magnavox. Manuel Pinto made a big hit in his solo dance, although he is but 10 years of age. An Irish jig by a group of girls was also roundly applauded. Those who took part in this number were Anna DiMone, Helen Melanson, May Laporte, Julia Marshall, Teresa Laporte, Marie Perry, Gladys Pitts and Bellinda Nedera.

The supervisors in charge of the girls were Helen Castles, Olga Shay, Mildred Collyer, Lucy Desmond and Alice Connolly.

Interesting Program

On the Greenhaig school playgrounds another interesting program was carried out. Two baseball games between the boys of the Aiken street and Greenhaig schools, one for the older and the other for the younger boys, both resulted in victories for the Greenhaig boys.

Other races for boys resulted as follows: 50 yard dash for older boys, won by Baribeau of the Greenhaig grounds; 60 yard dash for smaller boys, won by Barrett of the Greenhaig grounds; running broad jump won by Smith of the Greenhaig grounds; baseball race, won by Alford and Courtney; high jump, won by O'Brien, and shot race, won by Higgins. The Aiken street relay team defeated the Greenhaig team.

Dodgeball Winners

The girls of the two playgrounds also had their sports. The dodgeball winners were Eva Dufresne, Antoinette Barr, Viola Taylor and Madeline Reed, the former two from the Aiken street grounds. In stickball the winners were Antoinette Hart, Alice Soulier, Annette Laurent and Marion Tully. Siouenne Crato won the 20-yard dash for girls, and Alice Lehrin was second.

Estelle Charren won the first prize for excellence in sewing, with Rosanna Peletier second.

An excellent exhibition of sewing under the direction of Miss Alice D. Gallagher and Miss Mary Dowd brought forth much favorable comment as did the cooking exhibition prepared under the direction of Miss Christina Kane. Miss Helen Dunn and Miss Mary Kelly were the athletic supervisors and the results of their efforts were more than appreciated.

Boys' Races

At the North common the winners of the boys' races were as follows: 100 yards dash, Roy and Arthur Flipse; three-legged race, Fessenden and partner, first; and Laddie and partner, second; sack race, Louis Paipas, first, and Manhattan, second; pie race (with red blueberry pie), Drakes, first, and Novak, second.

The races for girls were won by the following: 50 yards for larger girls, A. Delaneau, first and C. Courtemache,

For the past eight weeks performances have been held on three playgrounds every week, making a total of 24 shows. Not one has had to be cancelled because of unfavorable weather conditions or any miscegagement of arrangements.

Competitors at the Magnavox, a novelty introduced by the park department this year, have added materially to the pleasure of those who have attended the performances.

HOW BICYCLE RIDER DODGED DANGER

In attempting to avoid striking a boy riding a bicycle in Powell street yesterday, Rodney G. Moore of 43 Nelson street drove his machine into the door of a bakery and demolished it. The boy jumped from his bicycle, but the wheel was run over by the car and was wrecked. The accident occurred when the boy, who gave the name of Bruce, swung from Powell into A street without giving a proper signal, so Mr. Moore claims. No one was injured in the accident.

SWINDLING THE PEOPLE

The Massachusetts Blue Sky law has gone into effect, its aim being to prevent wildcat stock selling schemes from doing business in this state. It remains to be seen whether it will really accomplish its purposes. It is very hard at the present time, to distinguish between schemes that are honest and others that are not. Besides, the people do not take warning of the danger of being swindled by putting money in these new financial schemes, promising rich returns. Ponzi is not the only man who came to the front in this state with financial enterprises promising investors an easy means of getting rich. There have been others that went to the wall, some of them so presumptuous that they would probably resent as libelous the slightest word of criticism. They told fake stories which were contradicted; but the people believed the men who were in the swindling business and rejected the criticism and the good advice given them by some newspapers as the babble of captious cynics.

Too many people seem to have faith in the gamblers' luck and are willing to take a chance even where they know there is a degree of risk. This is the secret of all the great swindles in the country today. The swindlers could do no business without clients and easy marks who never feel so secure as when gambling on an uncertainty. Barnum was right when he said that people like to be humbugged. The absurdity and dishonesty of the Ponzi scheme has been fully exposed; but if somebody else comes along with another proposition equally bad, the "suckers" would flock to put their money in it. Somehow the people confide in the latest hoax no matter how many others have been exploded. The manner in which some banking institutions in Boston have been conducted is sufficient to cause the public to lose confidence in certain institutions supposed to be thoroughly sound. In this connection we do not refer to savings banks conducted under our Massachusetts laws.

Bank Commissioner Allen finds a thoroughly bad state of affairs in some of the Boston banks, yet these operations have been allowed to run for years without interference. It seems to be another case in which inspectors did not inspect. Why were not the reckless operations stopped in time to save the banks? Had the bank examiners been on the alert, it seems they might have prevented the loaning of money without adequate security.

Out in New York eleven thousand working people will lose heavily by the collapse of the National Thrift Bonding Corporation. This concern had honest intentions but adverse conditions forced it into insolvency. The idea was to induce the working people to save by buying Thrift bonds and paying a certain amount weekly, the same to be deducted at the pay window where the subscriber worked. The bonds were to pay three per cent and as matters rest now, the holders will lose over 30 per cent unless they let the money rest until the securities on which the bonds were based reach maturity in 1943. Doubtless the bondholders will prefer 70 cents on the dollar to taking the risk of further delay, realizing that something might happen before that date to still further complicate matters.

In such cases as this it is only an expert who can tell whether a concern is sound, but the working people acted on their own judgment. When in doubt, they would benefit greatly from advice from disinterested parties, not from people who want their money. The same is true in politics. They are often fooled by the false promises and misleading statements of people who want their political support. In this case also, they will profit by taking counsel with disinterested parties who are competent and who can be relied upon to give an unbiased opinion on the subject in hand.

WEST VIRGINIA DISGRACE

Federal troops are called to West Virginia to quell a sort of insurrection among a large body of miners who claim and with good reason that their constitutional rights are denied them by the mining autocracy which seems to have full power over the military forces of the state.

The citizens are notified by presidential proclamation to disperse and go to their respective homes, and warned that failure will be attended with serious results as there is to be no child's play. That is a very grave threat, but it would seem that if the federal forces are drafted to the scene, they should put down lawlessness on the part of the mine owners as well as on the side of the miners who marched to wipe out the military guards which it appears have been conducting a species of martial law on their own account with the sanction or connivance of Governor Morgan, who by the way, seems to be a poor, spineless tool of the mining interests.

Under the constitution the citizens are guaranteed a republican form of government; but in West Virginia, particularly in Logan and Mineral counties, a large proportion of the mining population is subject to an industrial autocracy exercised by the mine operators through their control of the local government. The sheriff of Logan county is a puppet of the operators and is surrounded by detectives and spies sworn in as deputies.

When the federal authorities take charge they should first restore the reign of law and overthrow the autocracy which has usurped the authority of the state to support the operators in asserting their power to do as they please.

CUT RATES ON EXPORTS

Railroads east of the Mississippi are authorized by the Interstate commerce commission to make a 20 to 25 per cent cut in freight rates on iron and steel products moving to export. This cut is expected to stimulate foreign trade.

Then why wouldn't a similar cut in domestic rates stimulate buying here in America? It's a poor rule that doesn't work both ways.

The war department is endeavoring to dispose of all the wool it has remaining on hand as part of its war supply. Apparently the wool is not in great demand by New England manufacturers because of being too coarse or otherwise unsuited to their business. Last month a large quantity was offered for sale at auction and not more than half of it was purchased.

It was found that the life-saving apparatus at Hampton beach was practically worthless when it was called for in the recent case of drowning. Even the life preservers and life boats were found to be in such a condition that it was a waste of time to bother with them. That state of affairs should be promptly remedied.

It is time to call a halt to the custom so common among boys of jumping on trucks on the highways. The drivers of such vehicles and their employers become parties to possible accidents when they stop to take on passengers.

Nine-year-old Charles carried letters from the lawyer next door to his best girl. Every time he took one the lawyer gave him a dime. But one day he decided to reward him a little better. He started to dash two dimes out of his pocket. "I guess these letters are about worth 20 cents," he remarked facetiously.

"Yes, sir," Charles agreed soberly, "that's what I get—a dime from you and one from her."

But he didn't know what there was about his speech to make the fellow grin so happily.

The Questioning Soul
I am a little yellow dog.
And do no harm to anyone.
I eat what scraps are thrown away;
I lie and slumber by the sun.

And as I trotted up the street
A big man aimed a kick at me.
I am a little yellow dog.
I wonder what under the sun is he?

Worry
Worry is worse than the seven-year itch. You can't fit for that so that you quit scratching a little while now and again; but somebody, even the Devil himself, is always after you to cut it out by the roots and graft in a happy disposition where it used to grow. It can be done. Thank God for that!—Farm Life.

Have to Fire Him
The Department Manager—Well, we have to fire him, he's a pestleman. He's asleep most of the time.

The General Manager—No, don't fire him. Send him up to the clock section. We can use him there demonstrating alarm clocks on him.—Boston Globe.

Poor Poet
Home is the dearest place on the earth.

The poet scribbled down,
He paused, and on his mobile brow
Gathered a pensive frown.

He thought of all the many bills
Now he must pay, said,
The rates and taxes overdue,
The wages of the maid.

He realized that quarter-day
Was hourly drawing nearer;

That gas was going up in price,
That coal was never dearer.

He thought of clothes his wife would buy.

Despite his frenzied threats;
How editors returned his verse
With frigid, curt rejections.

And as he called to mind these things
His brow grew black as thunder;
He swore, and underlined those words;
He knew their truth—no wonder!

—RUDOLPH JOHNSON.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

Most people, I think, are getting away from the old idea that all outdoor amusements should shut up shop no matter what sort of weather prevails, after Labor Day. It has always seemed to me to be a rather silly thing that people should govern their outdoor recreation by an arbitrary point in the calendar. If the weather is pleasant why not get out in the open and enjoy oneself even though it is past Labor Day? Proprietors of parks and open air pleasure places are beginning to show common sense in such matters. There comes the announcement that many such parks will continue to operate their various amusement enterprises as long after Labor Day as the weather permits.

The street railway has also done the sensible thing to reverse to continue its excursions to Revere beach as long as the public continues to patronize them. By all means let us get out in the open and breathe the pure air of the country or the seashore, regardless of the advance toward the fall.

We worry a lot about the hot weather in Lowell. During the past month we have been congratulating ourselves upon the coolness, so unexpectedly unseasonable. When we have a sultry spell, such as we have been through recently, we wonder with indignation how long it will last. How little we have to kick about. I have spent two summers in Virginia. There, the mercury starts shooting up for new achievements in June, and it stays put until September or October, dancing on the top of the tube. There is no respite. There are no cool spells. The thermometer is up to stay. Whether the sun shines or the rain falls, the heat persists. One gets used to a change of clothing several times a day. One is accustomed to a continual bath of perspiration. Everyone knows that for home there is none. The calendar alone offers release. We ought to be ashamed of ourselves in kicking about our sluggish, mild tempered and accommodating New England weather. It is a case in which the elements go as far as possible toward pleasing everybody by blowing quite hot for a spell and then changing to cool without any excuse except to please the people who complained of the heat.

The war department is endeavoring to dispose of all the wool it has in great demand by New England manufacturers because of being too coarse was offered for sale at auction and not more than half of it was purchased.

It was found that the life-saving apparatus at Hampton beach was practically worthless when it was called for in the recent case of drown-boats were found to be in such a condition that it was a waste of time to bother with them. That state of affairs should be promptly remedied.

It is time to call a halt to the custom so common among boys of jumping on of such vehicles and their employers become parties to possible accidents when they stop to take on passen-peak & Ohio Railroad from St. Albans to Madison, Jeffery, and other points where armed bands have been collecting for the past few days, have been stopped. The last train from here left yesterday afternoon. Railroad men said not even the mail was being moved.

Persons who reached here early today tried in vain to induce owners of automobiles to take them to Madison or Jeffery. They said all roads between here and those points were patrolled and that armed men had been stopping motor cars within five miles of St. Albans.

Some 200 persons were assembled at the railroad station, waiting for transportation up Coal river. Many of them were here since yesterday afternoon. It is 38 miles from St. Albans to Madison and about 45 miles to towns just over the line to Logan county where armed men are reported as having been gathering since last Sunday.

Sheriff Hill at Madison reported over the telephone this morning that the movement of armed men along the highways through that place toward Jeffery, Sharples and Blair, was still in progress. Many of them traveled in automobiles, he said.

Business here was practically suspended, the people filling the streets and discussing possible eventualities along Upper Coal river. All information here was that there was no real armed movement of the armed men from Jeffery and the other towns to towns just over the line to Logan county where armed men are concentrating.

Thousands on Border

LOGAN, W. Va., Sept. 1.—Approach of noon today found thousands of men still gathered across the Logan county line. At Crooked Creek firing which started yesterday morning, continued but reports from other border actions were that quiet prevailed. There was no indication that any of the armed bands had dispersed, and border patrols of deputy sheriffs, state police and volunteer peace officers kept close watch.

Prediction freely was made between midnight and daybreak that 12 o'clock today would find armed bands still gathered on the Boone county side of Spruce Fork ridge. That hour was designated by President Harding in Tuesday's proclamation as the time limit for the dispersion of all persons "engaged in unlawful and insurrectionary proceedings;" the alternative being the dispatch of federal troops to the affected district and declaration of martial law in the counties of Kanawha, Fayette, Boone, Logan and Mingo. Charleston, the state capital, is in Kanawha county.

Yesterday the marching men started to advance in at least two places—over Blair mountain and at Crooked Creek. Reports brought into Logan the county seat, were that several members of the blocking patrols had been killed and indicated casualties among those trying to move forward.

Throughout the night motor cars transporting additional men and munitions, sped along the Logan-Blair road to Spruce Fork ridge and returned with reports that firing continued along a three-mile line.

Authorities definitely have established that three of the Logan county forces were killed yesterday. These men, one a deputy sheriff and the others volunteers, police officers, were shot to death in the Blair mountain encounter, which occurred shortly before firing on Crooked Creek began.

In addition to John Gore, a Logan county deputy, previously reported killed, John Cottingham and Jim Minstic fell in the mountain fight.

Conflicting reports of casualties among the men trying to march toward Mingo, were received at the sheriff's office early today. The number ranged from one to a dozen. It was explained by the reporter that it was extremely difficult to check losses on the other side because men who fell quickly were picked up and carried away. If dead, the bodies hastily were buried.

The fate of four deputy sheriffs and a Logan magistrate, held captive on the other side of the line, remained in doubt today. Sheriff Chaffin said last night:

"I fear for them."

put down the "unlawful and insurrectionary proceedings."

If by noon today President Harding's proclamation calling upon all persons engaging in the disturbances to return to their homes is not properly complied with, a proclamation declaring martial law in Kanawha, Fayette, Boone, Logan and Mingo counties is expected to be issued and two regiments of 1000 men each sent from Camp Sherman, Ohio, and Camp Dix, N. J. The proclamation already has been signed and requires only to be promulgated. Although officials are hopeful that the extreme step will not be necessary, their optimism has been lowered by recent despatches from the disturbed area.

If martial law is declared, it will be the first time this course has been taken by the federal government since the day immediately following the Civil war. In case federal troops are sent into West Virginia, they will be under the command of Gen. Bandholtz, who at one time commanded the Philippine constabulary and who in France was provost-marshal general of the A.E.F.

ing demolished by the court. Menard said he would sell his shop and the judge advised him to keep on with his business as this was the only means of support for his family, but he was told to stop drinking the poison. He was given a suspended sentence of five months to the house of correction.

Charge of Laziness

Thomas Dalton, who was charged with the larceny of $6.75 from Mabel Abist, admitted his guilt and after being ordered to make restitution and pay the costs of court, Dalton was given a suspended sentence to the Massachusetts reformatory. In disposing of the case, His Honor, addressing Dalton said: "You're going to land at the Massachusetts reformatory yet. You've been coming in here for the past five years and I've given you all the chance in the world to reform I'm through with you now." Complainant Sergt. Winn Three liquor cases were brought to the attention of the court. One was continued and the others were disposed of. When the last case was called, the judge took occasion to compliment Sergt. Winn on his good work and he expressed his hopes that the good work will be kept up. The first case called was that of Leo B. Miller and Samuel Cron, whose garage in Howard street was raided by the liquor squad yesterday afternoon. Both men were charged with illegally keeping liquor and after they had entered pleas of not guilty they were held in the sum of $500 each until Sept. 14.

Joseph Denault, employed in local near beer saloon, was fined $150 after Sergt. Winn had testified to purchasing a half pint of real whiskey from the defendant. Denault was charged with illegal sale.

Costas Sawris, who maintains a shoe shinin parlor at 127 Market street admitted his guilt to a charge of illegal sale and he was assessed $150. Sergt. Winn testified to finding two intoxicated men in Sawris' place of business and he said the defendant admitted selling "moonshine" at 25 cents a glass.

Alleged Hipper Bound Over

John Vachon, alleged "hipper," appeared in the district court this morning charged with illegal keeping of liquor. He was arrested in front of a Moody street near-beer saloon, according to the testimony of Sergeant Michael H. Winn, head of the new liquor squad, who was the first to take the stand for the government. "Officer Moore and myself," said the sergeant, "were approaching the establishment when the defendant, seeing us, ran into the saloon crying: 'Cheese it, the cop!' to the man at the bar. A bottle of moonshine was striking from one of his coat pockets, and Officer Moore took this."

The bottle was produced in evidence. Vachon told the officers, according to the sergeant's testimony, that he wasn't working for the establishment then, but had been some time previously, making $3 one week and $2.50 another. "Were you carrying the bottle?" the sergeant testified that he asked the defendant, whom he quoted as replying in the affirmative. "I'll take the blame myself."

The question involved, said the wife's counsel, was whether on a complaint for non-support when the husband depends on grounds of a divorce in another state, and the wife alleges the divorce was procured by fraudulent means, the district court has power to decide whether the divorce is valid or fraudulently obtained and void.

LABOR DAY SPORTS GIBBONS SAYS CARP WILL KEEP WORD

Program for Irish Refugee Fund—Miss Walsh of Cork to Speak—Other features

The committee of the A.A.R.I.R., in charge of the arrangements for the field sports and program at Spalding park on Labor day, held its final meeting last evening and completed the details. The proceeds will be forwarded to the fund for the relief of the Irish refugees who have been deprived of their homes by the ravages of the Black and Tans and for the widows and orphans of those who died fighting for the cause of Irish freedom.

The program includes a list of sports for men and women, a midway of attractive booths and a program of speaking that will tell the story of what Ireland has suffered in the recent reign of terror.

The principal feature of the afternoon will be the appearance of Miss Anna Walsh of Cork, Ireland, in the role of principal speaker. There will also be a Boston speaker who has drilled audiences in other cities.

Miss Walsh is sister-in-law to the lamented Lord Mayor Thomas MacCurtain of Cork, Ireland, and is a gifted speaker. She was present at the raid into the lord mayor's home and witnessed the details of that terrible tragedy.

Miss Walsh is soon to return to Ireland and there is a strong probability that her Lowell meeting will be her last public appearance before an American audience.

In addition to the principal speaker of the afternoon the general committee has arranged for a list of sports which should attract from all parts of the city and suburbs. This program, given below, will consist of long and short races for men and women and for which valuable prizes will be awarded the winners. Entries for the sports will be taken on the field for the various events. There will be a stirring football game between the Lowell team and the Tipperary team of Boston.

Prior to the trip to Spalding park the Lowell council will assemble on the South common at 10 o'clock sharp. They will march to Merrimack square and at some point in East Merrimack street, will block street cars for the park. Leading the parade will be an Irish warblers band from Worcester, an organization that will awake old memory by its Irish airs and marches.

Because of the worthy motive behind the field day and the program of attractions and entertainments prepared by the Lowell council, the general committee urges all who have an opportunity to do so to visit Spalding park on Labor day. It is going to be the biggest Irish field day held for many years in Lowell.

The program as prepared is as follows:

10 a. m. Start from South common to march to East Merrimack st. and board cars for Spalding park.

10:45 a. m. Flag raising at Spalding park.

11 a. m. Band Center—Irish Pipes & Drums.

11:30 a. m. 100-yards dash.

11:45 a. m. 225 yards dash.

12 m. 75 yards dash for Ladies.

Trip to Midway Booths and Attractions.

1:30 p. m. Half Mile Race.

1:45 p. m. Fat Women's Race.

2 p. m. Hop Step and Jump.

2:15 p. m. three-legged race for Ladies.

2:30 p. m. Marathon Race, 3 Miles.

3 p. m. Address by Miss Anna Walsh of Cork, Ireland.

5 p. m. Football Game St. Patrick's vs. Lowell vs. Tipperary of Boston.

"Disraeli" Is a Triumph for
The Art of the Photoplay

Louise Huff. She returns to the screen after a long absence to play the part of Clirissa, Juvenile heroine in "Disraeli."

BY JAMES W. DEAN

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—The film version of "Disraeli" is worthy of the name of George Arliss who made his biggest stage success in the play. This is only the second picture for Arliss. He adds new laurels to his crown in his picturization of "Disraeli," his greatest stage success.

The picture completed, Knoblock sat down and wrote a prologue for the picture. It is in verse and will be read in the theatres where the picture is presented.

KNOBLOCK'S PROLOGUE

A few years ago Paramount and Goldwyn stressed the value of screen stories by prominent authors. Authors received publicity along with the stars of the pictures.

More recently authors visited studios to actually participate in the direction of pictures.

Edward Knoblock was at the studio throughout the filming of "The Three Musketeers" for which he made the screen adaptation.

The picture completed, Knoblock sat down and wrote a prologue for the picture. It is in verse and will be read in the theatres where the picture is presented.

Thus the writer now participates in a play is transferred to the screen. It gives the lie to those low-brows who say that the classics cannot be made entertaining in the celluloid presentation.

"Disraeli," on the screen as it was on the stage, is a page torn from history, the history of the building of the British empire.

It tells of the rise of a Jew to the post of prime minister of England, of his battle against prejudice and against international intrigue to gain control of the Suez canal for Queen Victoria.

That deal made Victoria Empress of India as well as Queen of England.

Between these historical lines is woven a story of the unfeeling devotion of the premier and his wife, a love story so sweet in its simplicity that one wonders why infernal triangles are exploited on the screen.

True, the voice of Arliss is lost in the film play. But the subtleties are lifted from the spoken play and lose only the subtlety of inflection that Arliss gave them.

Tenney Kellogg directed the picture. He recognized one thing that few directors recognize. And that is—the feet are not needed in conversation.

Much of the action is photographed at middle distance, only the inner part of the players being shown. Thus when they talk the audience sees their bodies.

"Disraeli" will rank among the ten best photoplays of 1921. And "Disraeli" is a story that fails far short of being an ideal photoplay plot, as producers set motion picture standards.

LIPKOWSKA IN FILMS

Lydia Lipkowska announces she will go into movies as soon as she finishes her tour in "The Merry Widow." Her first film will be "The Maledict," from the Rimsky-Korsakoff opera. She created the little role of that in Petrograd. Lipkowska expects to interpret on the screen all the roles she played in Russian operas.

"Big Timber" is being filmed in Nova Scotia.

Tom Santechi completes "The Spirit of the Lake."

Tom Mix is now composing music.

His latest is called "The Bronco Trot."

GEN. VON BUELOW, WAR LEADER, DIES IN BERLIN

BERLIN, Sept. 1.—Field Marshal Count Karl von Buolow, who was commander-in-chief of the second German army during the war, died here yesterday.

Marshal von Buolow, who was 76 years old, was one of Germany's leading commanders during the war. He was raised to the rank of field marshal on Jan. 27, 1915, on the 55th anniversary of the kaiser's birth.

Marshal von Buolow's name was among the list of Germans whose surrender for trial was demanded by the Treaty of Versailles. After his name was published he declared publicly that the Germans whose names were on the list of those whose extradition was demanded by the allies, "only did their duty to the Fatherland" and that extradition was an ignominy to which no German would voluntarily submit.

At that time the field marshal declared he would never place himself at the disposal of the entente nations and expressed the belief that most of the commanders named in the list would take a similar view.

FOR RUSSIAN RELIEF

American Administration Will

Not Submit to Central Allied Authority.

PARIS, Aug. 31.—By the Associated Press.—Walter L. Browne, European director of the American relief administration, today definitely informed the sub-committee on co-operation of the international commission for Russian relief that the American Relief administration cannot submit to a central allied authority such as the commission. The relief administration, he declared, will only co-operate with the commission in the famine area of Russia, reserving to itself complete liberty of action in the administration of relief.

Delegates representing Great Britain, France, Italy, Belgium and Japan appeared disappointed over the refusal of the American relief administration to pool its work with the general plan which the committee hopes to work out. After hearing Mr. Browne's explanation of the relief administration's attitude, the committee adopted a resolution recommending to the various governments that they authorize immediate co-operation of all plans now under way.

Mr. Browne took no official note of this resolution as he has made clear that his position was one of "unofficial observer."

The international commission probably will adjourn tomorrow with the only definite results being the appointment of a commission of inquiry to go to Russia and the recommendation that the various governments concerned approve the principle of unified relief.

In American circles here the impression prevails that the inclusion of the American relief administration in the general allied plan was one of the chief hopes of the commission and that the failure to accomplish this may result in the European powers administering aid to Russia only through their respective Red Cross organizations.

SALVAGING EXPEDITION

Trawler Ripple on Quest of More Than Million Dollars in Sunken Treasure

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Bound on a quest for more than a million dollars in sunken treasure, the steam trawler Ripple was plowing south today, headed for Cape Charles, Va., and the submerged wreck of the Ward Line steamer Merida.

The little trawler's decks were littered with equipment for the salvaging operations when she sailed from New York yesterday. Her crew included Frank Crilley, one of the best known deep sea divers, and two officers, George W. Nordstrom, chief officer, of the Merida, when she went down, also was aboard to aid in locating the wreck.

The Merida was sunk in about 35 fathoms of water on May 12, 1911, in a collision with the steamship Admiral Farragut.

Her cargo included gold and silver bullion, valued at from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000, which she was transporting from Havana to New York.

The present salvaging expedition is the second undertaken.

TO HALT FLOW OF BOOZE INTO COUNTRY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Mobile squads of expert prohibition enforcement officers are to be sent from Washington to various Atlantic coast cities to assist in combating the flow of liquor being smuggled into the country, Internal Revenue Commissioner Blair said today.

Sec. Weeks Despatches Air Planes to Coal Fields Preparatory to Possible Intervention

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Expiration at noon today of the time limit fixed by President Harding by proclamation for dispersal of the armed bands of citizens in West Virginia's mine disorders found White House and war department officials awaiting report from Brig. Gen. H. H. Bandholz, the army's representative on the scene as to the situation.

White officials waited all day in readiness for the federal government to step into West Virginia should that be found necessary.

Trains were said by Secretary Weeks to be standing ready on side tracks at Camp Dix, N. J., and Sherman, Ohio, to move troops. Thirteen airplanes were en route from Langley Field, Va., to survey the whole region. A proclamation declaring martial law in the counties of Fayette, Kanawha, Logan, Boone and Mingo today by Secretary Weeks to proceed from Langley Field to the coal fields of that state.

Report Firing Resumed

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Sept. 1.—The office of Governor Morgan announced soon after noon today that it had a report from Logan of the resumption of firing on Blair mountainous community will unquestionably happen within the next 12 hours unless federal troops are dispatched.

From Charleston former Governor W. A. MacCorkle wired to Secretary Weeks following a tour made by him self through the disturbed territory that "the whole mining country is practically on the march toward the seat of trouble."

Spectacular Fire Destroyed Lumber Store and Threatened Oil Works; Second Fire in Coke Yard

TWO VIEWS OF THE RUINS OF THE REDMAN & RUSSELL LUMBER YARD

The large lumber storehouse owned by the firm of Redman & Russell, which was destroyed by fire last night in a spectacular blaze which resulted in $40,000 damage, "will never be rebuilt. It would constitute too grave a hazard, and the state authorities would never permit it." This was the statement given out this morning by John L. Russell, general manager of the Standard Oil plant here, which adjoins the storehouse. One of the huge gasoline tanks standing on the Standard Oil premises was ignited when the firemen arrived at the scene of the conflagration, but what Mr. Russell described as "some of the most wonderful work and excellent judgment that I have ever seen on the part of any fire department" succeeded in staving off serious results.

When the lumber storehouse was first planned, according to Mr. Russell, the Standard Oil company sought to purchase the land on which it was to be erected. A menace was foreseen by the company, said Mr. Russell, but the property belonged to the railroad, and the deal failed of going through for some reason.

Corroboration of Mr. Russell's opinion is seen in the statement issued by Chief Edward F. Saunders of the local fire department, to the effect that he had a conversation with two state officials this morning by telephone with reference to the blaze. Representatives of the state police, said the chief, will probably visit Lowell tomorrow. He

"Enforcement Critics Pull Down Law," Says Attorney Gen. Daugherty

Has No Choice But to Prosecute, He Tells American Bar Association

CINCINNATI, Sept. 1.—Theories of political philosophy now "advanced by those who either violate law or sympathize with law violators" in industrial conflicts, agitation to upset American forms of government, and against enforcement of prohibition statutes, are the greatest forces at work in the United States to undermine respect for the law, Atty. Gen. Daugherty declared yesterday in an address before the American and Ohio Bar associations.

Arguing equally against sentiment that regards a convicted L.W.V. as a "hero of conscience" and "political prisoner," he holds a bootlegger an exponent of "personal liberty" and sets up the slogan of "human rights against property rights" in employment disputes. Mr. Daugherty asserted safety and danger lay in all. The attorney-general in his address, which was his first since assuming office, suggested a method of informing public opinion by semi-governmental means to obviate industrial conflicts, but advocated complete disregard for the theories advanced in the two other fields.

"Not Moral Turpitude"

"I do not mean," said Mr. Daugherty, "to improve moral turpitude to him who is opposed to the Eighteenth Amendment or similar amendments in our state constitutions, or who is opposed to the Volstead act or similar legislation in our states. All I mean to say is that the argument of undue

Praise Given Children Who Took Part In Playground Closing Exercises

SCENE FROM EXHIBITION DANCE GIVEN BY SOUTH COMMON GIRLS

Lowell's municipal playground season closed yesterday afternoon with hundreds of friends and relatives of the youngsters, who had spent their summer in supervised play and work, on hand to see the results of eight weeks of activity. Fully 1500 children took part in the program on five playgrounds and surely double that number of spectators enjoyed the various events of the afternoon.

In every instance nothing but words of praise and commendation were forthcoming from the spectators as they saw unrolled before them a panorama of races, baseball games, volleyball games, fancy dancing and sewing.

Spectacular Fire

believed that State Fire Marshall Neal would be here to look over the situation. The chief intimated that this might be preliminary to action such as was predicted by Mr. Russell.

Firemen Met Roaring Furnace

"The place was a roaring furnace when we got there," said the chief. "If box 412 had been rung, instead of a box some half mile away, we could have reached the scene even more rapidly. As it was, we had to arrive in a roundabout manner, as there was no alarm sent in from the boxes in the vicinity of the yard. The fire bells were still ringing, however, when the chief reached the fire. The wind was blowing directly towards the six towering gasoline and kerosene tanks of the Standard Oil company, and one of these was in flames at the top. The first stream was played on the tank, the water booted off, but a curtain was soon surrounding the vast containers, three streams being directed from the top of the garage. This prompt action undoubtedly headed off even a more serious conflagration, with possible explosion of the gasoline."

Chief Saunders declared this morning that he could not give an opinion as to the cause of the fire as yet. It is thought that the state authorities expected tomorrow may be able to unearth something. The chief's examination today gave no clue, he said, as all evidence had been destroyed.

High Tribute to Firemen

The capacity of the six tanks at the Standard Oil plant here is approximately 130,000 gallons each. "A splendid job," in saying this was done by the firemen," said Manager Russell of the corporation. "I have had great experience with fires in connection with the petroleum business," he added. "I have been in the well regions where I have witnessed fires and also I have been present at refinery fires. But I never saw a fire handled in better shape or with such excellent judgment."

The tank which caught fire last night was ignited by sparks. It was not one of the three tanks which directly adjoin the lumber storehouse. These three are almost non-combustible, according to Mr. Russell, and will stand an extraordinary amount of heat.

"I want to call the public's attention," said the Standard Oil manager, "to the fact that this plant is surrounded with all the safety devices possible. The tanks can't overflow or encroach onto the property of others because they are situated in a well encompassed by a high bank of earth and of twice the total capacity of the tanks. The tanks next to the blaze would require tremendous heat for an explosion. The tank well would contain all the oil if the tanks did give away. We have spent thousands of dollars here to throw protection around our works, in preparation for just such an emergency as this last night. I can't say, however, too much for the fire department." The tank which caught fire, said the manager,

THE LATE HAMLIN S. GARDNER

probably was about two-thirds full of oil, or contained probably somewhat more than $10,000 gallons.

Another Fire Started

The fire of last night was located in the very heart of the lumber, oil and iron manufacturing activities of Ayer City, and while it was at its height a coke shed said to have been owned by a John Brady, burst into flames half a mile away. The alarm for the second fire closely followed that of the first at the lumber storehouse. This gave rise to the impression that a second alarm had been sounded. However, only one alarm was rung in for the first fire to break out.

Death of Fireman

A tragedy cast a pall of gloom over the desperately working fire-fighters, when Hamlin S. Gardner of the Lincoln street fire station, collapsed suddenly and died on the way to St. John's hospital. Death is said to have been due to natural causes, while the extraordinary exertions in which Fireman Gardner was engaged in the stress of the conflagration acted as a partial cause. Abel R. Campbell sought to rush Gardner to the hospital, but reached there too late.

Redman, together with George C. Robarge, yard foreman, were at work at the office, situated within a few feet of the main structure, when they saw flames coming through the roof of the latter building shortly after 8 p.m. A spark from a passing freight train may have started the conflagration. It is believed by employees of the concern.

The First Alarm Misleading

An alarm from Box 426 in the N. Y. N. H. & W. freight yard, first reached fire headquarters, although a phone call was sent in from the lumber yard itself immediately afterwards. Delay was caused by the firemen tearing up Gorham street as far as the bleachers bridge, in answer to the first call. When Chief Saunders reached the blaze, he telephoned for all available apparatus, and as his next step laid three lines, and directed them on the oil tanks. The garage was also kept soaked, as it was filled with a number of machines and more or less gasoline. Eight more streams were turned on the lumber storehouse, but only served to keep the flames under control, as the fire had progressed too far to save any of this structure.

Automobiles Lost

Five automobiles were completely destroyed in the ruin of the storehouse. Workmen declared this morning that they would not be worth salvaging even for junk, so utterly had they been destroyed by the flames. Two of the machines were Maxwell trucks, one of them being laden with inside wood finishing, including doors and windows for a job at West Chelmsford. The car was to have started with its load for West Chelmsford this morning. This truck lay crushed beneath fallen rafters at the very centre of the burned building this morning, while the remains of another Maxwell truck stood nearby. An Overland roadster, a Buick touring car and a Reo truck also met destruction within the blazing structure. A Ford car which was close to the building when the flames burst forth was moved to a place of safety in the nick of time. Records and papers were also saved.

Fire insurance issued by Fred C. Church covered part of the losses, while there are also policies for the various automobiles.

The fire was busy this morning going over these documents, under the direction of Treasurer Arthur Redman. Edward Russell, the other member of the firm, went to his home this morning for rest, after remaining on the scene all night. Mr. Redman stated this morning that the police guarded the ruins until 1 a.m., when they departed. The officers, who were headed by a sergeant, had difficulty to keep back the crowd, said Mr. Redman.

The call for the fire at the nearby coke shed came when the lumber yard was at its height. Some of the apparatus was transferred, but headway had been gained in the interim and the shed was badly damaged.

Thousands of people thronged the streets, fields and houses on every side of the storehouse fire, while automobile jammed every avenue of traffic, rendering most difficult the access of the fire-fighters to the blaze. The most spectacular conflagration in many years, was the opinion expressed concerning the fire.

This morning a mass of charred and twisted ruins, with a skeleton of blackened rafters overhead, was all that remained of the storehouse. Many curious spectators were on hand, and it required the efforts of many employees to keep them from overrunning the premises. The lumber piles that lined the south side of the building were badly scorched, but the good work of the firemen saved them.

Those who witnessed the work of the firemen and realized the danger of an

Director Moyer Tells of Local Work—Certificates Awarded

Mr. James A. Moyer, director of the University Extension courses under the state Department of Education, sends out a statement of the work done in this city from which the following is taken:

Lowell leads many Massachusetts cities in her record of accomplishment in university extension work both in number of classes and in number of students. A thousand Lowell residents have been entered on the lists of university extension students for the past year and twenty-four state classes have been conducted in this city. Nine of these classes were conducted at the high school. The largest of these were two classes in gasoline automobiles held for the benefit of persons driving cars or preparing to purchase cars. The enrollment was 250 and the teacher was John J. Glider. English classes were conducted by a Boston instructor.

NERVOUS FAINTING SPELLS

Mrs. Werner Tells How They Yield to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Camden, N. J.—"Before my baby was born I was run down and weak, had pains in my back and stomach, was very nervous and would have fainting spells. I certainly suffered awfully with those nervous fainting spells. I did not know anyone at times and used to scream. A doctor treated me for the spells but did not seem to do much good. I had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills before so I began taking them again. I soon felt a change and could do my work without pain and was cured of those nervous spells. Now I have a nice fat baby girl and had an easy time at birth, thanks to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—MRS. WILLIAM C. WERNER, 1218 Van Hook St., Camden, N. J.

When a wife finds her energies are flagging, she is weak, nervous, suffers from backache, the "blues" she should build her system up at once by taking that standard woman's medicine, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as did Mrs. Werner.

Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., will send free their Private Text-Book, "Aliments Peculiar to Women." It contains valuable information.

DEVENS BEST C. M. T. C. IN U. S.

Gen. Hersey so Tells His Officers After Boys Leave for Their Homes.

Students Pay Tribute to Commanders — Devens Ceases to be Army Post

CAMP DEVENS, Sept. 1—Yelling like a bunch of schoolboys, the 1200 students of New England's first citizens' military training camp, who completed their training Tuesday, yesterday morning poured out of camp almost in a body and today the great majority of them are back in their homes. And here in camp are about 100 worn-out and weary officers, striving to get their reports made out, their property turned in and get home, where most of them will probably sleep the clock around at least once or twice.

Yet, despite their utter weariness there is a sense of satisfaction in the hearts of both officers, for they know they have done a good job and that Devens was the best C. M. T. C. in the United States. But beyond all that is the great satisfaction of knowing that they personally got a hold on these boys.

The boys showed this themselves. Not a company commander but received some token of the affection of his boys before they left for home. Capt. Julian W. Cunningham, commander of Co. B, which was adjudged the best company in the camp, received from the boys in his outfit a solid silver replica of the cup the company won. Lieuts. Henry J. Hunt Jr., and Paul W. George, the other two officers of the company, received similar miniatures.

Other company commanders received traveling bags, military brushes, etc. Capt. T. G. Bond, commander of Co. L, was presented with a leather wallet.

Co. A was the only company in the camp to get out a publication. They came through with a little booklet called "At Ease." It was compiled and edited by James Harold Clavason, a Harvard student, and it contains sketches of the officers and every student in the company, besides pictures of the officers and one of the entire company.

Averaged 2.9 Pounds Gain

The report of Lieut. Col. Charles L. Foster, the camp surgeon, shows that 71 per cent of the boys gained in weight while they were here. Twenty per cent lost some weight, while nine neither gained nor lost. The average gain per student was 2.9 pounds.

There has not been a single case of contagious or infectious disease among the students—a record that army surgeons can scarcely believe possible, and scarcely a boy who had minor physical defects but what has them corrected, at least in part.

The movement of the students to their homes progressed in an orderly, swift and efficient manner, and those who went by train were on their way in less than two hours. Many waited on the lawn, where they were received into camp for their parents to come and get them in automobiles.

After all the boys had departed Gen. Hersey called the officers and non-commissioned officers together and thanked them for what they had done.

"I want you to know what you have accomplished," said Gen. Hersey. "You have taken part in the greatest movement of the year; possibly the greatest movement of this day and generation. And you have made real progress in the great matter of the better defense of our country. Comparisons are always odious, but there is reason to believe, from reports received from other camps, that Devens has had the finest C. M. T. C. in the United States, and so I have called you together to pay you a tribute, to express my thanks and pride and satisfaction in your accomplishment. That applies to every one of you, from Col. Bolles, whose genius has been in the main responsible for the brilliant record you have made, right down to the last kitchen police. You have done a great big thing, and it is something you may well be proud of."

Col. Bolles also expressed his thanks. "You have responded wonderfully well," he told them, "and you have displayed the right spirit throughout it all; the real camp feeling. Thank you very much, every one of you."

As soon as the last of the students had departed the officers began to leave, too. They return to their posts in almost every corner of the United States. Gen. Hersey himself is soon to go, as today Camp Devens ceases to be an army post. Last night Gen. Hersey was tendered a dinner at the hotel Long.

It is the officers' farewell tribute to a general who is beloved by every one of them. The dinner was followed by a dance at the division officers' club. Gen. Hersey will go to Fortress Monroe for a few weeks, after which he will take a month's leave. He will then return to New England, where he will command the coast defenses of Boston.

Many boys handed in their applications to attend camp next year, and as near as could be learned, about 75 per cent expressed a desire to come back next summer.

LOONY GETS A FALL

LOONY WAS JUST ABOUT TO START HIS SCRAPPING AGAIN

Nick looked up to the top of the tall tree whence the outlandish noises were coming, the noises that Loony Locust was making by scraping his wings. "Do you want him to stop his noise, Mr. Sprinkle-Blow?" he asked.

"Yes, do it, Nick," nodded the fairy emphatically. "It most certainly does, but I don't know how."

"I do," declared Nick. "Sprinkle-Blow nearly fell over. "How?" he gasped.

"I'll show you in a minute," said Nick. "But will you please open your umbrella, Mr. Westerman, and turn it upside down. When I say, 'One, two, three, ready, go,' please close it with a snap and hold it shut. Nancy, do you want to help?"

Nancy did, and in a minute the two of them (with the help of their Magic Shoes) were scuttling along a top branch of the tree toward that hideous creature known by the name of Loony Locust. They had wished themselves

IT WON'T HURT WHEN YOU PUSH THE CUTICLE BACK

BRAN WILL SOFTEN AND WHITEN YOUR HANDS

BY MABEL MOREAU

PARIS, Sept. 1.—A bran bath is as fine a thing as you can give your hands. If you want to be really kind to them, it softens them and whitens them and is wonderfully effective used just before you manicure your nails.

You'll find the cuticle acting better after a bran bath. It will be soft and won't hurt the least little bit when you shove it back to make the pretty little half moons you're so proud of. And while we're talking about nails, don't let the white spots worry you and don't spend hours trying to do away with them because usually they're made by little pockets of air forming under the nails and aren't a blemish that you can help.

For the bath, boil a small quantity of bran in a linen bag. Put both the liquid and the bran in the washbowls and add enough warm water to wash your hands.

Don't use any soap whatever. Just rub the boiled bran over your hands well and then after you dry them go over them lightly with cream. If your skin doesn't like cream well you can make an excellent lotion for it by mixing ½ pound of strained honey, ½ pound of sal-soda and a pint of water. Heat the mixture but don't boil it.

And are the tips of your fingers nicely tapered? You'll want them so and you can make them so. Every day when you finish touching up your nails with the fingers of one hand pinch the tips of the fingers of the other hand. Work with them thus for ten or twenty minutes. You'll soon notice a change.

SORINE FATHER OF CHILD

Science, Art and Law Decide He is Parent Despite Divorced Wife's Protest

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1.—Science art and the law are one in declaring Julius R. Sorine, the father of the third child of his divorced wife, despite the woman's assertion to the contrary, that the court's ruling handed down to day denied his petition for custody of the child.

Dr. Albert Abramson reported to the court that a test of the blood of father and son provided positive proof in his opinion, that the child was Sorine's. Handwriting, a sculptor by a series of facial sketches similar to those used in the famous Simeone case in Eng-land, told the court the child resembled Sorine.

Judge Graham declared that "specie of these tests the child was born during the lawful wedlock of the parties." He ruled the child should remain in the mother's care.

President of W.C.T.U. Revisits

Spot Where Union Was Founded

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1—How vice has retreated before the movement for moral betterment during the 48 years of the W.C.T.U.'s existence, was impressively borne in upon Miss Anna Gordon, its international president, when she recently revisited the spot where the world union had its inception here.

In 1883, the woman who now heads the organization stood beside Frances E. Willard in a Chinatown den when she made her historic pledge to unite militant Christian women.

Having in mind that dramatic scene, Miss Gordon sought again to find the exact spot in a sentimental pilgrimage with other W.C.T.U. delegates.

But a new Chinatown, different from the old as night and day, has grown up over the dives of brazen vice to which the Oriental quarter and its equally notorious complement, the "Barbary Coast," were at that time given over.

The exact spot couldn't even be positively identified.

"The world's Women's Christian Temperance union," said Miss Gordon, "was the outcome of Frances E. Willard's visit to San Francisco's old Chinatown in 1883. It was my privilege to accompany her."

"With sorrowful hearts we went through the one-time vice and opium section. And there Miss Willard said:

"In the presence of this Occidental avarice and Oriental degradation was born this solemn decision: The mission of Christian women is to organize the motherhood of the world for peace and purity and the protection and exaltation of its homes."

"I am glad I could not locate the spot where that pledge was made. It helps tell the story of progress."

SILVER STREAKS CHARLIE'S HAIR

Soothing and Healing
For Cuts, Burns, Scalds

By MARIAN HALE
NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—The thrifty woman who bought wrap coat last season expecting to wear it this year must make up her mind to be a bit passé.

The new coats offer the most important and decided change in the silhouette of all the season's styles. No longer is the cape-like wrap, beloved of the slender woman and adored by the fat one, going to accentuate graceful lines or conceal the lack of them.

The newest models from E. J. Wile & Co. show the bare in all its glory. Slappy and smart are these new coats which are shown in a variety of handsome materials.

An attractive coat is of Sorrento blue cordova, embroidered in gray chenille and with big wolf collar and cuffs.

A less elaborate coat, the last word in cut, for practical use, is of silver-tipped chenille.

This model with its choker collar, may be worn with or without a belt.

It has a raglan sleeve, though many of the coats of the same cut are shown with the big, set-in sleeves.

The wrap-coat is reserved exclusively for evening wear for those who follow the last fashion decrees.

GOTHAM IS BREAKING ITS NECK, COLLECTIVELY AND FIGURATIVELY SPEAKING, TO GET A PEEK AT CHARLIE, MARY AND DOUG. THEN THE NEW YORKERS TURN AND WHISPER, "LOOK, CHARLIE'S GETTING GRAY!" IT'S TRUE. THERE ARE SOME GRAY HAIRS IN THE COMEDIAN'S CURLY LOCKS.

JOHN W. DAVIS SPEAKS

Tells Lawyers English Go to

Courts Less Often Than

Americans

CINCINNATI Sept. 1—The average Englishman, with all of his proverbial insistence upon his personal rights, calls less often upon his courts for relief than does his American cousin, declared John W. Davis, former ambassador to England, in an address here last night before the American Bar association in which he gave "some random observations on the organization of the legal profession in England and the administration of English justice."

"Who shall come forward with an explanation of this fact, if fact it be?" asked Mr. Davis. "Is it a survival of days long gone when justice was not only costly but tardy and uncertain; is it because there exists in England a class of lawyers whose business lies wholly outside the courts and in whose hands many controversies are settled without judicial aid; or is there a reason deeper still in the growing habit of this island people to respect the law they have made and live their daily lives within its well-marked circle?"

"Starting as it may seem, the litigation of England and Wales is relatively little more than that of litigation in our federal courts alone, and the vast tide of controversy that flows through our state tribunals may be credited to us as surplus belligerency."

The speaker, after discussing the ranks and orders into which the legal profession in England is divided, declared that "in comparison with the close-knit organizations sheltered by the Inns of Court and Law society, we in America seem so many scattered grains of sand." It is difficult to make one familiar only with the English atmosphere, he continued, "understand that, in truth notwithstanding this association, there is no such body as the American bar. There are, instead, scattered groups consisting of county, city and state bars, with a federal bar here and there composed in part of the same members but united by no tie of common origin or discipline."

A marked spirit of progress, especially in the domain of criminal law and procedure, Mr. Davis said, has been shown in recent years by the legal profession of England. In addition to sweeping changes in the judiciary acts of 1872, 1874 and 1875, he declared, "justice has been brought nearer to the masses by the enlargement of the common law jurisdiction of the county courts."

"When all comparisons have been made, and all differences reckoned," Mr. Davis said in conclusion, "the fact remains that the members of the legal profession in England are in very much truth our brethren over seas. The common law by which we live has its roots in English soil. The judges who interpret it on both sides of the water look to their distant colleagues for counsel and assistance, and the principles of liberty which is embodied are the road and staff by which our peoples walk."

"Trained in the same school, professing the same great ideals, sharers of like immunities and privileges, there rests upon the legal profession in England and America a duty which is joint and not several, common and not divisible. The nations whom they serve stand today supreme in present strength and in potential energy. Upon them destiny has laid accordingly the largest responsibility for the immediate future of the world. Shall not the lawyers, who lead as well as serve them, guide them in the ways of mutual confidence and joint endeavor in the service of mankind?"

It seems that Donlan's wife was killed in an automobile accident in Salem Aug. 22 and all particulars concerning the accident are in the hands of the Salem city marshal. $200,000,000 PROFITS CONCEALED BY R. R.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Western railroads by expansion of reserve accounts and the setting up of exorbitant depreciation charges against their properties, have concealed profits amounting to $200,000,000, Clyde M. Reed, chairman of the Kansas Public Utilities commission and spokesman for the western railroads in their attempts to get reduced railroad rates, testified today before the Interstate Commerce commission.

On the basis of an analysis of the accounting returns of 19 railroads in the west during 1920, totaling $9,000 million of track or 68 per cent. of the mileage of the western district, Mr. Reed asserted that their profits during 1920 which he said generally had been considered insufficient to meet the government guarantee of their earning power, in fact that had been the greatest in their history.

He urged that the programs in favor of maintenance of transportation rates had misled not only public opinion but official bodies charged with regulating rates.

The profits of the 19 railroads, as shown by their official reports were $285,314,170 in 1920, Mr. Reed said, while in 1915, the best year previous to the war, he added, they amounted to $525,714,753. In addition to this the road held on Dec. 31, 1920, he continued, $550,000,000 as a reserve for "accrued depreciation of equipment." In 1915, the total reserve he had was $144,994,362, he said, adding that the roads in 1920 had added to the fund $15,000,000 which was carried in "operating equipment."

A further example, he said, was an "operating reserve account" which amounted to $55,131,443 in 1920, while in 1915, the fund was $3,733,551.

These amounts were set aside from railroad earnings. Mr. Reed said notwithstanding that the normal expenditures were made upon maintenance of equipment and roadbed. Producing statistics as to the amount of work done, he asserted that there had been no failure to provide usual maintenance.

Among the roads included in the summary were the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe, the Chicago & Rock Island, the Great Northern, the Minneapolis & St. Pauls, the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, and the Chicago & Great Western.

DELEGATES TO BRING RARE BEVERAGES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Adoption of a passive attitude toward the possible arrival in Washington of beverages of rare vintage with the delegates to the disarmament conference in November, was indicated today by Treasury officials. Delegates to the conference, officials asserted, would probably be accorded the same diplomatic privileges extended only accredited foreign representatives and in such cases there would be no question of their right to import intoxicants.

Many delicate prohibition questions may arise during the conference, it was said, such as the service of wines at functions at places other than on the properties of embassies and legations. But the government, it was added, could be expected to refrain from embarrassing the conference on this question.

PARIS, Sept. 1.—(By the Associated Press)—The Spanish positions at Melilla, Morocco, were vigorously attacked all day Wednesday according to a telegram received in Madrid from General Berenguer, Spanish high commissioner in Morocco, says the correspondent of the Paris Midi in the Spanish capital. Two transports with troops and materials of war have arrived in Melilla. Le Journal's correspondent at Rabat quotes the Petit Paroisin as saying that the small Spanish posts facing the French post of Querzaz had been evacuated and that the Spanish troops there were withdrawing to Alcazar. Similar evacuations are in progress, the despatch said in the region of Tetuan, notably blockhouses along the road from Sheshuan to Tetuan.

Approval by the commission probably means that the congress will adopt the proposition.

GERMAN COMPETITION HITS AMERICAN TRADE AT EVERETT

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 1.—German competition with American trade in Argentina is severely felt, and in some instances American articles have been ousted from the market, says Edward F. Feely, commercial attaché at the American embassy. This is especially true in the trade in small manufactured articles, but the Germans are less effective in selling heavy machinery, locomotives, rails and other large steel products. They have as yet been unable to make sufficiently quick deliveries, although they frequently quote low prices.

The competition in the trade in small articles shows no signs of weakening and with some products, notably cheap watches, the Germans flooded the market some time ago, shipping 750,000 timepieces into Argentina and selling them below the cost of production and shipment of similar watches in the United States. German cutlery and small hardware can be obtained at prices one-third less than those charged for American products. They have also won from Americans the trade in drugs and chemicals.

Stationery paper and small electrical supplies are also selling cheaply at the expense of American business. Germans are quoting low prices on print and paper, and have made large deliveries of this product.

"I am now seventy-eight years old and I don't hesitate to say I have never known a medicine to equal Tanlac. For fifteen years I was subject to attacks of indigestion that were so bad at times I would have to lay up for a week or two. ### KAHN SAYS BOLSHEVISM WHOLLY DISCREDITED

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Returning yesterday on the Olympic, Otto H. Kahn, New York banker, said he had found Europe with the general opinion that the co-operation of Germany was needed in the regeneration of Russia.

"In comparing my European impressions this year with those of last year," said Mr. Kahn, "what struck me as perhaps the most interesting and significant development are:

"First, that the theories of Bolshevism are wholly discredited and have ceased to be a contagious influence and an article of faith with all but a small fraction of the bona fide working people of Europe.

"Secondly, that the eyes of the industrial nations of Europe are on Russia as the new land of unlimited possibilities.

"Thirdly, that there seems to be almost universal recognition, even in strongly antagonistic quarters, that for the commercial penetration and the proper economic ordering and development of a regenerated or to be regenerated, Russia, the active co-operation of Germany is requisite and essential, owing to her contiguity and her knowledge of Russian ways and qualities and conditions.

"England and France are alive to that situation, and their financial and industrial leaders are astir, especially those of England, with traditional enterprise, skill and foresight.

"American co-operation would be welcome at this time. It would appear to me that this situation should receive the careful and prompt attention of American industry and finance, lest by standing aloof too long we may find ourselves foreclosed from desirable opportunities when the proper time arrives."

Referring to general business conditions, Mr. Kahn said: "The prerequisites are that waste and shipshaped methods in business be eliminated, costs brought down, the 'get rich quick and easy period' considered definitely at an end, and that both capital and labor recognize the need of adjusting their respective compensation to the circumstances which the country has to meet."

NO CAUSE FOR ALARM FOR DISABLED VETERANS OVER WHEAT SUPPLY

Human Fly to Climb Sun Building and Perform Hair-Raising Stunts

WASHINGTON. Sept. 1.—No cause for serious alarm is apparent at present, over the prospect of the world's wheat supply, although the situation is not so satisfactory as was expected during the first part of the current season, according to the department of agriculture. Twenty countries, including the United States, which produce approximately 65 per cent. of the known wheat crop of the world, will harvest 2,451,330,000 bushels this year. That is 76,357,000 bushels more than harvested in those countries last year.

Drought in the greater part of the northern hemisphere was a serious menace in many countries but fall sown wheat was not so adversely affected as at first supposed. Nearly all northern and central European countries will have larger wheat crops than last year.

A very unsatisfactory feature in the present international situation is the hopeless condition of the Russian crops the department experts say. Unofficial reports state only a very small area was sown in Russia to the various crops, resulting in failure to produce sufficient food for the country's needs.

SWINDLING THE PEOPLE

The Massachusetts Blue Sky law has gone into effect, its aim being to prevent wildcat stock selling schemes from doing business in this state. It remains to be seen whether it will really accomplish its purposes. It is very hard at the present time, to distinguish between schemes that are honest and others that are not. Besides, the people do not take warning of the danger of being swindled by putting money in these new financial schemes, promising rich returns. Ponzi is not the only man who came to the front in this state with financial enterprises promising investors an easy means of getting rich. There have been others that went to the wall, some of them so presumptuous that they would probably resent as libelous the slightest word of criticism. They told fake stories which were contradicted; but the people believed the men who were in the swindling business and rejected the criticism and the good advice given them by some newspapers as the babble of cynics.

Too many people seem to have faith in the gamblers' luck and are willing to take a chance even where they know there is a degree of risk. This is the secret of all the great swindles in the country today. The swindlers could do no business without clients and easy marks who never feel so secure as when gambling on an uncertainty. Barnum was right when he said that people like to be humbugged. The absurdity and dishonesty of the Ponzi scheme has been fully exposed; but if somebody else comes along with another proposition equally bad, the "suckers" would flock to put their money in it. Somehow the people confide in the latest hoax no matter how many others have been exploded. The manner in which some banking institutions in Boston have been conducted is sufficient to cause the public to lose confidence in certain institutions supposed to be thoroughly sound. In this connection we do not refer to savings banks conducted under our Massachusetts laws.

Bank Commissioner Allen finds a thoroughly bad state of affairs in some of the Boston banks, yet these operations have been allowed to run for years without interference. It seems to be another case in which inspectors did not inspect. Why were not the reckless operations stopped in time to save the banks? Had the bank examiners been on the alert, it seems they might have prevented the loaning of money without adequate security.

Out in New York eleven thousand working people will lose heavily by the collapse of the National Thrift Bonding Corporation. This concern had honest intentions but adverse conditions forced it into insolvency. The idea was to induce the working people to save by buying Thrift bonds and paying a certain amount weekly, the same to be deducted at the pay window where the subscriber worked. The bonds were to pay three per cent and as matters stand now, the holders will lose over 30 per cent unless they let the money rest until the securities on which the bonds were based reach maturity in 1943. Doubtless the bondholders will prefer 70 cents on the dollar to taking the risk of further delay, realizing that something might happen before that date to still further complicate matters.

In such cases as this it is only an expert who can tell whether a concern is sound, but the working people acted on their own judgment. When in doubt, they would benefit greatly from advice from disinterested parties, not from people who want their money. The same is true in politics. They are often fooled by the false promises and misleading statements of people who want their political support. In this case also, they will profit by taking counsel with disinterested parties who are competent and who can be relied upon to give an unbiased opinion on the subject in hand.

WEST VIRGINIA DISGRACE

Federal troops are called to West Virginia to quell a sort of insurrection among a large body of miners who claim and with good reason that their constitutional rights are denied them by the mining autocracy which seems to have full power over the military forces of the state.

The citizens are notified by presidential proclamation to disperse and go to their respective homes, and warned that failure will be attended with serious results as there is to be no child's play. That is a very grave threat, but it would seem that if the federal forces are drafted to the scene, they should put down lawlessness on the part of the mine owners as well as on the side of the miners who marched to wipe out the military guards which it appears have been conducting a species of martial law on their own account with the sanction or connivance of Governor Morgan, who by the way, seems to be a poor, spineless tool of the mining interests.

Under the constitution the citizens are guaranteed a republican form of government; but in West Virginia, particularly in Logan and Mingo counties, a large proportion of the mining population is subject to an industrial autocracy exercised by the mine operators through their control of the local government. The sheriff of Logan county is a puppet of the operators and is surrounded by detectives and spies sworn in as deputies.

When the federal authorities take charge they should first restore the reign of law and overthrow the autocracy which has usurped the authority of the state to support the operators in asserting their power to do as they please.

CUT RATES ON EXPORTS

Railroads east of the Mississippi will be controlled by the Interstate commerce commission to make a 20 to 25 per cent cut in freight rates on iron and steel products moving to export. This cut is expected to stimulate foreign trade.

Then why wouldn't a similar cut in domestic rates stimulate buying here in America?

It's a poor rule that doesn't work both ways.

The war department is endeavoring to dispose of all the wool it has remaining on hand as part of its war supply. Apparently the wool is not in great demand by New England manufacturers because of being too coarse or otherwise unsuited to their business. Last month a large quantity was offered for sale at auction and not more than half of it was purchased.

It was found that the life-saving apparatus at Hampton beach was practically worthless when it was called for in the recent case of drowning. Even the life preservers and life boats were found to be in such a condition that it was a waste of time to bother with them. That state of affairs should be promptly remedied.

It is time to call a halt to the custom so common among boys of jumping on trucks on the highways. The drivers of such vehicles and their employers become parties to possible accidents when they stop to take on passengers.

The royalists at Belfast are now using the arms placed in their hands by the government on their fellow citizens who may differ with them in national or religious sympathies.

To spend $5,000 of the city's money unnecessarily is as same as throwing it away. Why not save it for charity or some worthy object?

SEEN AND HEARD

Some people save money; others have a daughter in college.

Some live to a ripe old age, others get off street cars backward.

When you see a man look at the calendar and grin he's a coal dealer.

The doctor who says we bathe too often is trying to boost his business.

Friend—What's the matter? Been in a wreck?

Motors Director (all bandaged up)—No; I engaged a lot of ex-drugboys for a battle scene. I got them all ready, and then I shouted, "Camera!" High! they thought I said kamikaze. Film Fun.

"What is The Hague Tribunal?" the teacher asked a pupil.

"The Hague Tribunal are—" "Don't say is," the teacher said. "Yes, ma'am. The Hague Tribunal is—ultra-national controversies." Columbus Dispatch.

Nine-year-old Charles carried letters from the lawyer next door to his best girl. Every time he took one the lawyer gave him a dime. But one day he decided to reward him a little better. He started to fish two dimes out of his pocket. "I guess these letters are about worth 25 cents," he remarked facetiously.

"Yes, sir," Charles agreed soberly, "that's what I get—a dime from you and one from her."

But he didn't know what there was about his speech to make the fellow grin so happily.

The Questioning Soul

I am a little yellow dog.
And do no harm to anyone.
I eat what scraps are thrown away;
I lie and slumber in the sun.

And as I trotted up the street
A big man alighted a kick at me.
I am a little yellow dog.

I wonder what under the sun is he?

Worry

Worry is worse than the seven-year itch. You can't sit for that so that you can quit scratching a little while now and then; but when you've got it, you've got it for worry. You have to give it out by the roots and graft in a happy disposition where it used to grow. It can be done. Thank God for that! Farm Life.

Have to Fire Him

The Department Manager—Well, have to fire that new salesman. He's asleep most of the time.

The General Manager—No, don't fire him. Send him up to the clock section. We can use him there demonstrating alarm clocks on him.—Boston Globe.

Poor Poet

"Home is the dearest place on the earth."

The poet scribbled down,
He paused, and on his mobile brow
Gathered a pensive frown.

He thought of all the many bills
Now waiting to be paid;
The rates and taxes overdue,
The wages of the maid.

He realized that quarter-day
Was hourly drawing nearer;
That gas was going up in price,
That coal was never dearer.

He thought of clothes his wife would buy.

Despite his frenzied threats;
How editors returned his verse
With sciggle, curt regale.

And as he called to mind these things
His brow grew black as thunder;
He swore, and underlined those words,
He knew their truth—no wonder!

—RUDOLPH JOHNSON.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

Most people, I think, are getting away from the old idea that all outdoor amusements should shut up shop no matter what sort of weather prevails, after Labor Day. It has always seemed to me to be a rather silly thing that people should govern their outdoor recreation by an arbitrary point in the calendar. If the weather is pleasant why not get out in the open and enjoy oneself even though it is past Labor Day? Proprietors of parks and open air pleasure places are beginning to show common sense in such matters. There comes the announcement that many such parks will continue to operate their various amusement enterprises as long after Labor Day as the weather permits.

The street railway has also done the sensible thing in offering to continue its excursions to Heyere beach as long as the public continues to patronize them. By all means let us get out in the open and breathe the pure air of the country or the seashore, regardless of the advance toward the fall.

We worry a lot about the hot weather in Lowell. During the past month we have been congratulating ourselves upon the coolness, so unexpectantly unseasonable. When we have a sultry spell, such as we have been through recently, we wonder with indignation how long we will last. How little we have to kick about. I have spent two summers in Virginia. There, the mercury starts shooting up for new achievements in June, and it stays put until September or October, dancing at the top of the tube. There is no respite. There are no cool spells. The thermometer is up to stay. Whether the sun shines or the rain falls, the heat persists. One gets used to a change of clothing several times a day. One is accustomed to a continual bath of perspiration. Everyone knows that for hope there is none. The calendar alone offers release. We ought to be ashamed of ourselves in kicking about our sailboats, mild tempered and accommodating. New England weather is a case in which the elements go as far as possible toward pleasing everybody by blowing quite hot, a cool wind and then changing to cool and dry and then changing to cool again. It is a perfect way. Eddie Carr & Co. in "The Office Boy" put forth a speedy comedy in a speedy way. Carr is funny all of the time. Hugh McCormick and Grace Wallace in a ventriloquist comedy, "At the Seashore" are up to the general average, and Jean Darlene, an exuberant singer of topical tunes. There are George Clegg & Rosie May, who sing Oriental songs with an Oriental twist, and the Do Lions, acrobats and equilibrists.

Motorcycle Officer Michael Shea of Lawrence proved himself a real hero Saturday when he probably saved Miss Isabel Sutherland from drowning and also assisted in the rescue of other Lawrence girls at Hampton beach. In so doing he had a hard fight and was almost overcome himself. His friend, Kelley Shea, is entitled to a Carnegie hero medal for his brave work. Upon orders from Alderman Peter Carr, director of public safety, Officer Shea will be allowed a week off with pay in recognition of his work. Notice of this action will be forwarded to him at Hampton beach, so that he can continue his vacation there if he so desires. In addition, the story of the officer's action will be recorded in his credit in the police department records.

The royalists at Belfast are now using the arms placed in their hands by the government on their fellow citizens who may differ with them in national or religious sympathies.

To spend $5,000 of the city's money unnecessarily is as same as throwing it away. Why not save it for charity or some worthy object?

Miners' "Army" Ordered Home by Harding

First pictures from the West Virginia mine area showing miners (above) being urged by mine union leaders to go home, and deputy sheriffs (below) starting out to meet the miners' "army," which was ordered by President Harding to disperse and go home. The top picture was taken at Madison, while the miners were being addressed at a mass meeting by C. Frank Koenig, district union president, who urged the men to go home.

been stopping motor cars within five miles of St. Albans. Some 200 persons were assembled at the railroad station waiting for transportation up Coal river. Many of them were here since yesterday afternoon. It is 35 miles from St. Albans to Madison and about 45 miles to town just over the line to Logan county, where armed men are reported as having been gathering since last Sunday.

Sheriff Hill at Madison reported over the telephone this morning that the movement of armed men along the highways through that place toward Jeffery, Sharples and Blair, was patrolled and that armed men had still in progress. Many of them travelled in automobiles, he said.

Business here was practically suspended, the people filling the streets and discussing possible eventualities along Upper Coal river. All information here was that there was no backward movement of the armed men from Jeffery and the other towns where the bands have been concentrating.

Thousands on Border
LOGAN, W. Va., Sept. 1.—Approach of noon today found thousands of men still gathered across the Logan county line. At Crooked Creek firing which started yesterday morning, continued but reports from other border actions were that quiet prevailed. There was no indication that any of the armed bands had dispersed, and border patrols of deputy sheriffs, state police and volunteer peace officers kept close watch.

Prediction freely made between midnight and daybreak that 12 o'clock today would find armed bands still gathered on the Boone county side of Spruce Fork ridge. That hour was designated by President Harding in Tuesday's proclamation as the time limit for the dispersal of all persons "engaged in unlawful and insurrectionary proceedings," the alternative being the dispatch of federal troops to the affected district and declaration of martial law in the countries of Kanawha, Fayette, Boone, Logan and Mingo. Charleston, the state capital, is in Kanawha county.

Yesterday the marching men started to advance in at least two places—over Blair mountain and at Crooked Creek. Reports brought into Logan the county seat, were that several members of the blocking patrols had been killed and indicated casualties among those trying to move forward.

Throughout the night motor cars transporting additional men and munitions, sped along the Logan-Blair road to Spruce Fork ridge and returned with reports that fighting continued along a three-mile line.

Authorities definitely have established that three of the Logan county forces were killed yesterday. These men, one a deputy sheriff and the others veterans, were captured and were taken to the Blair mountain encounter, which occurred shortly before firing on Crooked Creek began.

In addition to John Gore, a Logan county deputy, previously reported killed, John Conroy and Jim Munroe fell in the mountain fight.

Conflicting reports of casualties among the men trying to march toward Mingo, were received at the sheriff's office early today. The numbers ranged from one to 100. It was explained that the figures were not exact because men who fell quickly were picked up and carried away. If dead, the bodies hastily were buried.

The fate of four deputy sheriffs and a Logan magistrate, held captive on the other side of the line, remained in doubt today. Sheriff Chafin said last night:

"I fear for them."

Federal Forces Ready
WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Word was awaited by federal authorities today from Brig. Gen. Bandholtz in the disturbed West Virginia area to determine whether martial law should be declared and federal troops sent in to put down the "unlawful and insurrectionary proceedings."

If by noon today President Harding's proclamation calling upon all persons engaging in the disturbances to return to their homes is not properly complied with, a proclamation declaring martial law in Kanawha, Fayette, Boone, Logan and Mingo counties is expected to be issued and two regiments of 1000 men each sent from Camp Sherman, Ohio, and Camp Dix, N. J. The proclamation already has been signed and requires only to be promulgated. Although officials are hopeful that the extreme step will not be necessary, their optimism has been lowered by recent despatches from the disturbed area.

If martial law is declared, it will be the first time this course has been taken by the federal government since the day immediately following the Civil war. In case federal troops are sent into West Virginia, they will be under the command of Gen. Bandholtz, who at one time commanded the Philippine constabulary and who in France was provost-marshall general of the A.E.F.

ing admonished by the court, Menard stated he would sell his shop and the judge advised him to keep on with his business as this was the only means of support for his family, but he was told to stop drinking the poison. He was given a suspended sentence of five months to the house of correction.

Charge of Larceny

Thomas Dalton, who was charged with the larceny of $6.75 from Mahel Able, admitted his guilt and, after being ordered to make restitution and pay the costs of court, Dalton was given a suspended sentence to the Massachusetts reformatory. In disposing of the case, His Honor, addressing Joseph Denault, employed in a local near beer saloon, was fined $500 each until Sept. 14.

Dalton said: "You're going to land at the Massachusetts reformatory yet. You've been coming in here for the past five years and I've given you all the chance in the world to reform. I'm through with you now."

Complaints, Sgt. Winn

Three liquor cases were brought to the attention of the court. One was concluded and the others were disposed of. When the last case was called, the judge took occasion to compliment Sergeant Winn on his good work and he expressed his hopes that the good work will be kept up. The first case called was that of Leo B. Miller and Samuel Cron, whose garage in Howard street was raided by the liquor squad yesterday afternoon. Both men were charged with illegally keeping liquor and after they had entered pleas of not guilty, they were held in the sum of $500 each until Sept. 14.

Mary Filip was fined $150 on charges of illegal sale and unlawful keeping.

The case resulted from a raid last night at premises on Reed's court. The woman asked for an extension of time to pay the fine.

"You can pay now or go to jail," was the court's ultimatum, whereupon the defendant produced the amount of the fine in bills of large denomination.

The case of Adam Matyka, charged with illegal keeping, was continued to September 14 at request of his counsel. He was another of the prisoners taken last evening.

Operating Auto While Drunk

The case of John H. Emory, charged with operating an automobile while drunk, was continued one month. The case of Charles Dennis, charged with non-support, was sent up to the superior court for the disentanglement of legal puzzle. Dennis' attorney displayed a decree of divorce given him by a New Hampshire court on charges of "willing absence." This took the trial of the case from the district court's jurisdiction, he contended. Counsel for the wife questioned whether the divorce had not been obtained by fraud, and consequently was not binding in the courts of this state. The case was sent up for disposition by the higher court, both attorneys expressing themselves satisfied with this action.

The question involved, said the wife's counsel, was whether on a complaint for non-support, when the husband depends on grounds of a divorce in another state, and the wife alleges the divorce was procured by fraudulent means, the district court, whom he quoted as replying in the affirmative, "I'll take the blame myself and void."

LABOR DAY SPORTS GIBBONS SAYS CARP WILL KEEP WORD

Program for Irish Refugee Fund—Miss Walsh of Cork to Speak—Other features

The committee of the A.A.R.I.R. in charge of the arrangements for the field sports and program at Spalding park on Labor day, held its final meeting last evening and completed the details. The proceeds will be forwarded to the fund for the relief of the Irish refugees who have been deprived of their homes by the ravages of the Black and Tan and for the widows and orphans of those who died fighting for the cause of Irish freedom.

The program includes a list of sports for men and women, a midway of attractive booths and a program of speaking that will tell the story of what Ireland has suffered in the recent reign of terror.

The principal feature of the afternoon will be the appearance of Miss Anna Walsh of Cork, Ireland, in the role of principal speaker. There will also be a Boston speaker who has drilled audiences in other cities.

Miss Walsh is sister-in-law to the lamented Lord Mayor Thomas MacCurial of Cork, Ireland, and is a gifted speaker. She was present at the raid into the lord mayor's home and witnessed the details of that terrible tragedy.

Miss Walsh is soon to return to Ireland and there is a strong probability that her Lowell meeting will be her last public appearance before an American audience.

In addition to the principal speaker of the afternoon the general committee has arranged for a list of sports which should attract from all parts of the city and suburbs. This program given below, will consist of long and short races for men and women and for which valuable prizes will be awarded the winners. Entries for the sports will be taken on the field for the various events. There will be a stirring football game between the Lowell team and the Tipperary team of Boston.

Prior to the trip to Spalding park the Lowell council will assemble on the South common at 10 o'clock sharp. They will march to Merrimack square and at some point in East Merrimack street, will board street cars for the park. Leading the parade will be an Irish war pipes band from Worcester, an organization that will awake old memory by its Irish airs and marches.

Because of the worthy motive behind the field day and the programs prepared by the Lowell council, the general committee urges all who have an opportunity to do so to visit Spalding park on Labor day. It is going to be the biggest Irish field day held for many years in Lowell.

The program as prepared is as follows:

10 a. m. Start from South common for march to East Merrimack st. and board cars for Spalding park.

10:45 a. m. Plan Raising at Spalding park.

11 a. m. Band Concert-Irish Pipes of Worcester.

11:30 a. m. 100-yard Dash.

11:45 a. m. 220-yard Race.

12 m. 75 yards dash for Ladies.

Johnny Wilson, disputed middleweight champion of the world, and Bryan Downey, the man who knocked Wilson down three times and out at Cleveland, July 27, meet at Boyle's Thirty Acres, Jersey City, N. J., Sept. 5, Labor Day, to decide which is the real title holder.

Those who saw Downey canvaus Wilson at Cleveland (excepting Referee Jimmy Gardner who gave the fight to Wilson on a foul) say Downey is the champion.

The Cleveland and Ohio state boxing commissions have proclaimed Downey champion.

The other part of fandom, who did not see the knockdowns, contend that Wilson is still the titleholder. Tex Rickard is promoting the match.

Wilson is to receive $30,000 with a privilege of a per cent, and Downey is to get $20,000 with a privilege.

It is a 12-round no-decision bout. New Jersey does not permit a decision to be rendered in a boxing contest.

The weight is 160 pounds the day of the fight.

Downey scored his knockdowns with a short right-hand punch.

He came near winning the welterweight title several years ago when he knocked Jack Britton down, the referee giving what was admittedly long count which allowed Britton to get back to his feet and stay.

Downey will enter the Jersey City ring confident that he can repeat his knockdowns again and leave no question as to who the middle champion is.

Wilson will be handicapped by the psychology of having been floored by his opponent.

Downey makes his home in Cleveland, Ohio, and is managed by Jimmy Dunn.

Wilson's home is in Charlestown, Mass., and his manager is Marty Killian.

Care and Responsibility.

THE responsibility attached to the preparing of a remedy for infants and children is undoubtedly greater than that imposed upon the manufacturer of remedies for adults whose system is sufficiently strong to counteract, for a time at least, any injurious drug. It is well to observe that Castoria is prepared today, as it has been for the past 40 years, under the personal supervision of Mr. Chas. H. Fletcher.

What have makers of imitations and substitutes at stake? What are their responsibilities? To whom are they answerable? They spring up today, scatter their nefarious wares broadcast, and disappear tomorrow.

Could each mother see the painstaking care with which the prescription for Fletcher's Castoria is prepared: could they read the innumerable testimonials from grateful mothers, they would never listen to the subtle pleadings and false arguments of those who would offer an imitation of, or substitute for, the tried and true Fletcher's Castoria.

A Word About Truth.

"Great is Truth, and mighty above all things." So says the Old Testament, yet it is equally true to-day. Truth shows no favors, fears no enemies.

From the inception of Fletcher's Castoria, Truth has been the watchword, and to the conscientious adherence to this motto in the preparation of Fletcher's Castoria as well as in its advertising is due the secret of its popular demand.

All imitations, all substitutes, all just-as-good preparations lack the element of Truth, lack the righteousness of being, lack all semblance even in the words of those who would deceive.

And you! Mothers, mothers with the fate of the World in your hands, can you be deceived? Certainly not.

Fletcher's Castoria is prepared for Infants and Children. It is distinctly a remedy for the little-ones. The BABY'S need for a medicine to take the place of Castor Oil, Paregoric and Soothing Syrup was the sole thought that led to its discovery. Never try to correct BABY'S troubles with a medicine that you would use for yourself.

MOTHERS SHOULD READ THE BOOKLET THAT IS AROUND EVERY BOTTLE OF FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

PROTEST ACTION ON DEBS PARDON

Socialists Decline to Accept Pres. Harding's Reason for Failure to Act

Indignant Over Refusal of President to Grant Amnesties to Political Prisoner

Executive Committee Makes Bitter Attack on the American Legion

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—In a statement issued today commenting on President Harding's failure to act on an application for a pardon for Eugene Debs until after the peace treaty with Germany is ratified, the socialist national executive committee today declared "We decline to accept the latest reason given for failure to act. It is not in accord with the known facts."

The statement referred to the release of many convicted German spies, some of whom "were convicted of placing bombs on ships sailing for European ports," and denounces the American Legion.

The committee, the statement said, "learns with profound regret and indignation that after months of waiting no definite action has been taken by President Harding. The United States has today the unenviable distinction of being the only country where the administration has not granted a full amnesty to all its political prisoners. Every German agent convicted of overt acts against the government during the war has been pardoned. Some were convicted of placing bombs on ships sailing for European ports."

"Both the light sentences they received and the clemency shown these criminals of the old ruling class of Germany are significant."

Acts which is committed by American citizens would incur the death penalty for treason, are apparently considered of minor importance when compared with the frank criticisms uttered by citizens in war time.

"It is known that one militarist organization, the American Legion, born under mysterious financial auspices, has indulged in kidnapping of socialist speakers; that has fostered a mob spirit and has inspired and led mobs; that has usurped the civil and police functions of many communities; that is nursed by chambers of commerce; and has attempted to terrorize those not in accord with its ignorant and reactionary views; has insolently attempted to thwart the efforts of millions to restore this country to its old status as a nation where all are free to speak and to write."

"This building militarist-Junker clique does not represent the present or the future. It represents the era of abysmal hatreds which it holds to keep alive. It gaided ascendingly in the councils of the nation, it could suppress every civil right with the hand as the strutting militarist caste did in the old Germany. It represents darkness, not light; ignorance, not intelligence; stupidity, not tolerance; militarist bureaucracy, not enlightened humanity."

REDUCTION IN PRICE OF MILK

SPRINGFIELD, Sept. 1.—The Springfield marketing committee of the New England Milk Producers' association today announced that the September price of milk charged dealers will be eight cents a quart, a reduction of one cent from the August rate. The price reduction will be passed along to consumers, making the price in general 15 cents, the price reached in July. During August, 16 cents was charged.

The decision of the producers marks a break from the custom that has prevailed for three years of following the Boston market and is based on local conditions. It does not mean, it is said, that the local producers have left the association.

STOCK MARKET

The following is a complete report, giving high, low and closing quotations:

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—The foreign oil group furnished the only noteworthy exception to the lower trend in the opening of today's stock market. Mexican and Pan-American Petroleum registered one point gains, presumably in connection with reports of an early compromise agreement between the Mexican government and American oil interests. Steels, equipments, rails, shipments and food shares were lower. These were chiefly represented by Crucible Steel, General Electric, Reading, Chicago & Northwestern, American International and American Sugar, where losses extended from large fractions to 1% points.

Additions to early gains were made by Mexican and Pan-American Petroleum, American Locomotive, Famous Players, Tobaccos and express companies' shares. Counter movements continued, however, in equipments, shipments, sugars and chemicals, those issues making extreme declines of one to five points. Rails especially Northern Pacific and Great Northern added to yesterday's reversal. Oil cancelled part of its gains before noon when motors, notably Studebaker and Pierce Arrow, pfd., became heavy. Call money opened at 5½ per cent, the highest initial rate of the week. Exchange on London and continental Europe was strong.

Studebaker, Chandler, U. S. Rubber, cotton and first preferred, and Ajax Rubber, high in the further declines at mid-day, while Pierce Arrow, preferred, fell almost four points. Steels, equipments and coppers also yielded irregular gains in which Mexican Petroleum rose three points when occurred.

Mexican Petroleum's further advance with concurrent gains in related issues overshadowed all other features of market trading. Rails continued to hang back. The closing was irregular.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—The Italian government has formally accepted President Harding's invitation to participate in the Washington conference for international reduction of armament and discussion of Pacific and Far Eastern questions. The acceptance completes the list of nations invited to participate. Great Britain, France, China and Japan already have favorably answered the invitation.

Volunteer rescue teams were organized by miners but their efforts were futile. A special train bearing a United States mine rescue car was despatched to the mine within an hour after the accident.

MUST KEEP ARMED FORCES

Pres. Harding Discusses Necessity of Troops at the Army War College

No Matter Where Aspirations of World Lead us, Armed Forces Necessary

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—President Harding, speaking today at the opening of the fall term of the army war college declared that "no matter where the best aspirations of the world lead us there never may be a time without the necessity for armed forces."

The president in his brief address pledged the 200 officers in his audience that during his administration, they would never be called to perform military service "they could not enter into with all their heart and soul as Americans."

Referring to the situation in the West Virginia coal fields, the president declared:

"We ought not to have a conflict like that which is going on in West Virginia. It is due to lack of understanding."

Mr. Harding said there were "two relative essentials to civilization to which we all aspire; one is an understanding among men at home and the other an understanding between nations."

He expressed belief that the time was coming when the "burdens of armament" could be diminished.

"I wish with all my heart," he added, "that there will be less of armies and navies."

Declaring that through 4000 years of pagan history and 2000 years of Christian civilization the world only has come to a civilized state of armed warfare, the president reiterated that he thought it "perfectly futile to think there never may be armament."

"We of America without unnecessary boasting," he continued, "have come nearer to civilized warfare than any nation."

The president declared "the trouble with the world today is that there are too many theorists who know nothing of actualities." Whoever, he added, brings practical experience into play with theory will make a real contribution to progress.

DECLINE IN CONDITION OF COTTON CROP

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Decline in the condition of the cotton crop during August caused a reduction of 1,16,000 bales in the estimated final production as compared with the amount forecast a month ago.

Production this year was forecast today at 7,037,000 bales of 500 pounds gross by the department of agriculture which based its estimate on the condition of the crop Aug. 26, which was 49.3 per cent of a normal, forecasting a yield of 12.0 pounds per acre.

The production was forecast a month ago at 8,203,000 bales, based on the July 25 condition of the crop, which was 13,439,600 bales and the August 25 condition was 67.5 per cent of normal, 1911-20, was 67.7 per cent. The decline in condition from July 25 to Aug. 25 was 15.4 points, compared with an average decline of 7.7 points for the 10 years.

Grounds in Tyngsboro
Today

Auto Parade Through Business District at Noon—Big Ball Game

Ideal weather marked the annual outing of the Lowell Lodge of Elks held this afternoon at the Martin Luther grounds in Tyngsboro. Several hundred members of the local lodge assembled in the Elk room in Middle street shortly after 12 o'clock and immediately the formation of a line of decorated automobiles was started.

Each machine was plastered with stickers telling of the outing and in addition there were American flags denoting one of the cardinal principles of Elks—patriotism. It was a happy crowd that got started shortly before 12:30 and with the officers of the lodge in the leading machines a parade was started. From Middle street the parade made its way into Central street and then to Merrimack. When Cardinal O'Connell parkway was reached, a counter march was put into effect, and the Elks returned downtown to Central street and then to the grounds in Tyngsboro.

LARGEST CITY IN WORLD

New York Has Valid Claim Against London for Honor, Says Geographic Society

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—New York has a valid claim against London for classification as the largest city in the world, according to the National Geographic Society. Discussing the recent announcement of the British census that Greater London has now a population of 7,478,161 persons, a society bulletin today questioned the right of London city proper to claim that population and suggested that New York's 5,629,046 souls actually within one municipal unit, under one municipal government, may make it largest.

"Legally, as a municipal unit, London refers only to the area within the boundaries of the county of London," the bulletin asserted. "Only Greater London figures are carried in the dispatches, at the rate of growth they indicate London proper still is under the five million mark. The Greater London which has nearly 7,600,000 persons has an existence as a metropolitan and police unit. Its population is distributed over 693 square miles, an area six times that of municipal London, and more than twice that of municipal New York."

A greater New York modelled on the Greater London lines, taking in all suburban cities within a 15 mile radius from the city center, as the English capital does, with New Jersey towns included, would pass London's population well within a like area, the bulletin concludes.

on awaiting them upon their arrival at the grounds and then a sporting program was started. The main event was a baseball game for the championship of the Massachusetts Northeastern district of Elksdom between teams representing the Lowell and Medford lodges. The winners were to receive a handsome silver cup donated by Exalted Ruler Samuel Scott.

After the baseball game the following list of sports was run off: Pillow fight, three-legged race, U and I race, 100 yards dash, hop step and jump, relay race, fat men's race, shoe race and golf driving contest. Prizes were awarded the winners in every event.

Later in the afternoon the big feature of the day got under way when a clamshank—a real old-fashioned affair—was served on the club grounds. During the meal music was furnished by the Elks' orchestra. The start home will be made early this evening. The receipts of the outing are to be devoted to the Elks' Christmas charity fund.

The committee in charge of the affair was headed by William H. Mahan, P.E.R., and Joseph Gilley, secretary.
